Gas Selling For 17 Cents

Tydol and Texaco Drop Price of Gasoline Another Cent—Newcombe and Standard Expected To Follow To Meet Competition.

The Kingston Oil Company, distributors for Tydol gasoline, dropped the price of gasoline another cent a gallon on Monday afternoon, making the tank wagon price 15 cents a gallon and the retail price 17 cents.

Some dealers handling Standard Oil product Monday put out 17 cent signs but inquiry at the local office of the Standard Oil Company this morning failed to produce any information as the local manager in charge was absent.

The Newcombe Oil Company stated that as yet they had not dropped their price but might follow the downward trend of price later in the day. An official stated that the company would probably follow changes in price to meet the price of the other big companies.

Texaco announced a drop in price to 15 cents a gallon wholesale, bringing the retail price to 17 cents. This price it was stated at the local office was to meet competition of the other companies.

One of the larger dealers on Monday stated that the price of gasoline was as low as the present price of crude oil warranted and that a further reduction was not in accordance with the present price of crude oil.

This statement and the reduction of another cent a gallon immediately after might indicate that the gasoline war which has been waged in the upper and western part of the state had reached Kingston. A gradual reduction of the price of crude oil has been going on for some time and the opinion was that this reduction would warrant a price of about 18 cents. A further reduction would indicate a gasoline "war" which will be watched by dealers and consumers with the greatest interest.

The Newcombe Oil Company reported late this afternoon that they had dropped their price to fifteen cents wholesale and seventeen cents retail. Inquiry at the office of the Standard Oil Company brought the reply that there was no one there at that time who was authorized to state what their wholesale price was.

Girl in Windham Case Disappears

Anna Sobin, Nursemaid of Murdered Rothenberg Boy, Reported Missing From Her Home at Elizabeth, N. J.

Despatches from Elizabeth, N. J., state that Anna Sobin, 16 years old, who figured prominently in the Howard Rothenberg murder case at Windham last summer, has disappeared from her home there, her foster mother, having made such a report to the New Jersey authorities.

According to Mrs. Serafin, the girl has been missing since Saturday night, when she left home to buy an ice cream soda. Prosecutor Abe J. David is reported to have said the girl appealed to him for protection last week, telling him she had received letters which led her to believe there was a plot to abduct her. The foster mother said she believed the girl had been kidnapped.

Lester Smith of Catskill, who was attorney for the girl, says he approves of the girl going where she will not be molested but believes she will communicate with him if she is still alive. On Saturday, he says, he had a telephone conversation with her, following the receipt of a letter from Prosecutor David of Elizabeth, which stated she had been arrested. The girl denied to Mr. Smith that she had been arrested or in jail or had given bail. If the girl communicates with him, he said, he would produce her whenever she is wanted.

Anna Sobin was nursemaid to Howard Rothenberg, the seven-year-old boy who was murdered at Windham. She was in custody for a long time and while she was in the Catskill jail it is asserted an attempt was made to kidnap her. At the time that the indictments against the three defendants who were indicted for the boy's murder were dismissed, sensational charges were made in court by their attorneys regarding Anna Sobin, but the charges seem to have been made mostly for the purpose of obtaining publicity.

SENATOR LODGE CHEERFUL AND ABLE TO SMOKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, July 29.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was today "resting cheerfully" following an emergency operation for an obstruction of the bladder. His condition was so favorable that attending physicians announced there would be no necessity of continuing issuance of the bulletins they have given out twice a day. Senator Lodge is being permitted to "eat whatever he pleases" and to smoke cigars and cigarettes.

Chautauqua Singer Travels in a Lincoln

Noted Prima Donna Who Comes to Kingston Uses De Luxe Method of Transportation—Other Notable Members of the Party Who Travel in the Sedan.

Miss Frances Ingram, prima donna of both the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera companies, who is appearing this season under the auspices of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, and who is to appear here on August 5 is making the entire tour in a Lincoln car.

This deluxe method of transportation was chosen for Miss Ingram because the management felt that in keeping with Miss Ingram's artistry she should enjoy the highest quality in her mode of travelling. So she enjoys the unique distinction of being one of the few stars in the profession who makes all her concert engagements in a Lincoln.

Coming with the prima donna are Miss Joy Babcock, a violinist who is rapidly nearing the heights in her chosen profession; and Miss Margaret Ringgold, pianist and accompanist extraordinary, whose wonderful gifts lend enchantment to the vocal numbers of Miss Ingram.

Dr. Martin D. Hardin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ithaca, N. Y., also is a member of the party, and is travelling with the others in the Lincoln Sedan. The doctor, who is regarded as one of the most eminent pulpit orators in the country will give his address during the afternoon, while the Ingram recital will take place in the evening.

Leading critics are unanimous that Miss Ingram possesses all the requisites of a great vocal genius. In addition to a natural voice, which has been termed by many as the most genuine contralto of a decade, she has an extraordinary personality.

Persia Arrests Imbrie's Slayers

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 29.—Practically all persons implicated in the killing of Robert Whitney Imbrie, American vice-consul at Teheran, have been arrested the Persian legation announced today.

The legation, in a formal statement called forth by Washington's warning note to Persia, said that the police did not take part in the attack but, on the contrary, sustained casualties attempting to rescue the American. One policeman was killed and several wounded.

The statement pointed out that, due to sectarian feeling at Teheran, the police were ordered to do nothing which would aggravate ill-feeling. These orders, it was said, led the police to refrain from firing upon the mobs.

Canada May Stop Flow of Liquor

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ottawa, Ont., July 29.—New regulations to govern liquor exportations and check the flood of liquor now entering the United States through the Canadian border were predicted here today following a conference of customs and excise department officials. The conference was called when it was pointed out that liquor legally exported from Canada to foreign countries was being diverted to the United States, a friendly legally dry nation and neighbor.

An investigation of conditions at Toronto was in progress today and it was said this would be followed by a survey at Windsor, the Detroit and St. Clair river areas, the Niagara frontier and along the Quebec border.

It was said more Canadian liquor and beer than ever was crossing the international border into the United States and that failure of provincial governments to act caused the federal government to take a hand.

SEEKING RELEASE OF TAR AND FEATHER VICTIM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Frederick, Md., July 29.—Defying those who have threatened her with bodily harm unless she "cleared out of town" Mrs. Viola Kennedy announced today that within the next 24 hours she would go to the county jail to obtain the release of Dorothy Grandon, who was tarred and feathered here last week by a band of 50 men. Mrs. Kennedy and Miss Grandon lived together before the attack made upon the latter.

Following Miss Grandon's experience with tar and feathers and her subsequent imprisonment, Mrs. Kennedy has been warned that she would meet a similar fate unless she left this town behind.

"I don't care what they say," she declared today. "I am going to get that girl out of jail."

Miss Grandon is held under $500 bond as one of the state's witnesses in the tarring case. Mrs. Mary Shanks, who originally admitted that she led the mob against Miss Grandon, is still in jail and probably will remain there until September. Her bond has been fixed at $2,000 with no money in sight.

Compensation Hearings.

Referee Nye will hold compensation hearings at the court house on Tuesday, August 5, beginning at 9:30 o'clock and on Wednesday, August 6, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Edwin Shader Hit by an Auto

Former Policeman Edwin Shader of Linderman avenue is in the Kingston City Hospital with injuries sustained this morning at 10:30 o'clock when the bicycle he was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Leo Gallo of No. 108 Murray street, on Broadway at Franklin street. Mr. Shader was rushed to the hospital in the police car, where it was found that he had sustained lacerations of the head, a fractured bone in one hand and other injuries.

According to the police report of the accident, Mr. Shader was riding up Broadway on his bicycle and was about to turn into Franklin street when Gallo, who was driving up Broadway, ran into the bicycle.

Davis Cuts His Vacation Short

Will Arrive in New York One Day Sooner Than Expected and May Again Urge Governor Smith to Run for Re-election.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Maine, July 29.—With the political pot beginning to boil back home, John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate, today planned to cut his vacation short and hasten back to the scene of activity.

Davis will leave here on the 6:25 train Wednesday evening, which will put him in New York Thursday morning, a day sooner than he had planned.

From the Charles Dana Gibson estate on Seven Hundred Acre Island where the nominee and his wife have been guests of the Gibsons, Mr. and Mrs. Davis on Wednesday after noon will go to Rockland and will be guests of honor at a reception given by the citizens.

Shortly after arrival in New York, the candidate said today, he will confer with Governor Al Smith of New York and urge him for the second time within a month to run for re-election in the November campaign.

Supporters and advisers of the nominee have told him that Smith's presence on the Democratic state ticket will materially aid the West Virginian's chances to carry New York.

George Rubblee, Vermont, former member of the Federal Trade Commission; Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston; and Daniel J. McGilcuddy, Democratic national committeeman from Maine, conferred with the nominee in his studio on the island. Certain points in the acceptance speech were discussed, among other campaign plans.

FRANCE WORKING FOR AGREEMENT AND PEACE.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 29.—"The French delegation is working with a firm desire for agreement among the Allies and for peace," said Premier Edourard Herriot in a report upon the London reparation conference which was read in both the Senate and Chamber of Deputies this afternoon.

The statement added:

"While seeking to give legitimate security to the subscribers to the proposed German loan the French delegation is taking precautions against attacks upon the Versailles treaty and the rights of France."

Missing Italian Flyer Safe.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, July 29.—The Italian 'round-the-world flier, Lieut. Locatelli, who was reported missing, is safe. He left for Strassburg today.

Democrats to Meet August 11

The Democratic county committee has issued a call for the unofficial convention to be held at the Kingston Opera House on Monday morning, August 11, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of recommending candidates to be voted for at the fall primary on September 16. Candidates to be named are member of assembly, county judge, county clerk and coroner. County district caucuses will be held August 6 for the purpose of electing three delegates from each district to attend the county convention.

Prohibition Not New Party Issue

LaFollette Voted to Submit Eighteenth Amendment to States—Opposed Volstead Act—Omitted Prohibition From Platform.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 29.—The new Progressive party does not regard prohibition as an issue in this year's presidential campaign, it was announced today at the headquarters of Senator Robert M. LaFollette.

The statement was made on behalf of the Progressive candidate in reply to the charge of the Anti-Saloon League that LaFollette is the "only wet" in the race for the White House The issues are all economic, LaFollette's managers explain, pointing out that LaFollette made no mention whatever of the dry law, or prohibition, in his platform presented to the Cleveland convention of the conference for progressive political action which endorsed him for the presidency.

At the same time, headquarters maintained that LaFollette and Senator Wheeler both were for "strictest enforcement of all laws."

LaFollette voted for submission of the prohibition amendment to the states. When it was finally ratified, he opposed the Volstead act, expressing the belief that the act was too drastic in defining the percentage of alcoholic content in beverages. He also voted against the anti-prescription bill.

"LaFollette's record on the dry question speaks for itself," one of his chief lieutenants said today. "With the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law written into law of the land we do not feel that prohibition is an issue at this time."

MULATTO GIRL HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE.

A young mulatto girl who is known by the names of Rose Gold and Celia DeWillis and who the police department believes came to Kingston from Albany or Troy, was arrested at the city hall Monday evening by Sergeant Hanley, who charged Rose with larceny in helping herself to a ten dollar bill. She is also believed to be the same girl who made a date with a New York man and then picked his pocket of $150 last Friday night. She was held today until 6 o'clock to await the arrival of the man from New York. She is represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan.

According to the police she was brought to the city hall Monday evening by a man in an auto who claimed she had robbed him of a $10. When searched at the city hall the money was not found on her. Search of the city hall driveway was made with a lantern and a $10 bill found where it was claimed she had thrown it out of the car.

Court Hears Boys' Confessions

Chicago Youths Made Statements to Officials Preceding Their Formal Confessions, All of Which are Read Into Court Record.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Criminal Court, Chicago, Ill., July 29.—Any and all efforts by the corps of alienists employed by the wealthy Leopold and Loeb families to represent "Dicky" Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., to be insane or mentally incompetent—thus furnishing the "mitigating circumstances" for the cold blooded murder of little Bobby Franks—will be hotly contested by the state, which is seeking to hang them for the crime.

This was reaffirmed in positive language today by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe as the eighth day of the Leopold-Loeb trial got underway in Justice Caverly's court. He was aroused by the report of Dr. William Healy, a Boston psychiatrist employed by the defense, in which Leopold was said to be "dangerous" and of "paranoiac and monomaniac type."

This talk of paranoia and monomania indicated to the prosecution forces that the defense is going to skate dangerously close to the line of pleading insanity despite its forfeiture of that right when it pleaded the boys guilty.

May Ask for Jury.

"At the first effort to represent these boys to be insane or mentally incompetent," said Crowe, "I will ask Judge Caverly to call a jury in this case. These fellows are guilty, they are sane, and the fact they had adolescent dreams is no reason why they should not pay the full penalty for their atrocious crime."

The defense counsel merely smiled and went ahead with their plans for introducing, as soon as the state finishes, at least half a dozen men of medical science who will testify to the "queerness" of "Babe" and "Angel Face Dickie."

A large sized map of the vicinity where Loeb and Leopold stuffed Franks's body into the drain pipe and buried his clothes was hung up in the court room today as the session opened. This was to enable the court and the counsel to more closely follow the story of the crime as it was related in the voluminous statements and the confessions themselves which both Leopold and Loeb made.

Confessions Read in Record.

Reading of these statements was resumed at the outset of the session. In these early statements Leopold and Loeb presented a carefully prepared alibi and they smiled curiously today as they heard their two months' old falsehoods intoned in the court room. At times they nudged each other and laughed.

The prosecution counsel conferred privately with Justice Caverly this morning over whether to introduce in the record a remarkable statement made by Leopold during the grilling that preceded his confession. This dealt with matters which are unprintable.

"It's of little moment either way," Justice Caverly told the lawyers.

Most of the unprintable matter went into the records, but it was read in whispers to the official stenographers, no portion of it permitted to reach the ears of scores of women spectators who were present today as usual.

Slayers' Slip Destroyed Alibi.

The long stenographic report of Crowe's first examination of Leopold, read into the record verbally, showed minute examination into the young students' movements around the time of the kidnapping.

Leopold denied knowing any of the Franks family or the boy or ever having called at the home. The inquiry was casually made:

"What is the Franks' telephone number?"

"Drexel 8938," he replied, instantly.

Before that time, even despite the finding of his glasses near the culvert, Leopold's questioners had not been certain of their ground. But when he made that slip they went at the questioning with renewed interest.

The lawyers took turns at reading the bulky, voluminous bound file of testimony.

Sometimes their voices rose and at times they addressed the stenographers in whispers, these latter being the times when unprintable parts of Leopold's observations were recited.

Two hours were occupied in reading Leopold's early statements and then at 12 o'clock, the reading of Leopold's actual confession to the murder was begun. It was lengthy, too.

All this reading was designed merely to round out and complete the record of the case. The defendants looked bored.

Court recessed at 12:30 until 2 p. m. with Leopold's confession still going into the record.

CLEAR MURDER SUSPECT OF ALL SUSPICION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—Andrew Brechenmacher, also known as Andrew Reck, held as a suspect in the murder of Francis McDonnell, 7 year old State Island boy, today was virtually cleared of suspicion, according to police investigating the crime. Mrs. Elizabeth Reck, mother of Andrew, told police that her son was with her at their home in Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island, at the time the boy was last seen and that he did not leave the house until a considerable time after the body had been found.

Extra Heavy Dose Of Spellbinding

Radio to be Used but Stump Speaking Will be Invoked by All Parties Which Will Send Speakers Everywhere.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 29.—The country is to be administered an extra heavy dose of political stump speaking during the presidential campaign.

Plans announced today in the three leading presidential camps—Republican, Democratic and Progressive—indicated that stump speaking will be more popular this year than even during the campaign of 1912, when three tickets likewise were in the race for the White House. No town in the country will be so small or so isolated that it will not be visited by some speaker affiliated with the presidential headquarters.

In the LaFollette-Wheeler camp, stress is being placed upon the mobilization of a veritable army of speakers, both men and women. LaFollette has on his desk at the capitol names of more than a hundred men and women who have volunteered their services to take the stump for him. Shortly he will name a chairman of speakers' bureau which will be set up in Chicago.

Not to be in the least outdone, Republican national headquarters here declared that a host of speakers also would be dispatched into every state about the first week in September to carry on the campaign of President Coolidge and General Dawes.

Dawes himself will take a leading part in the Republican stumping and he will be assisted by most of the Republican senators and congressmen. The Republican speaking campaign will be comprehensive and well organized in view of the fact that the president plans to make only a few speeches himself and most of these in Washington.

For the Democrats, John W. Davis, in his acceptance speech at Clarksburgh, will fire first shot in the verbal barrage that will be laid down over the country in the interest of his candidacy. He will be quickly followed on the stump by an array of speakers, which Democratic headquarters here declares will be as large as those offered by either of the other parties. Democratic senators and congressmen will also take a leading part in the speaking campaign.

Leaders of all three parties have agreed that the campaigning will not be confined to large auditoriums in the big cities. Republicans and Democrats said they would go along with the plans of the LaFollette group to invade the shops, the factories, the town halls, the country fairs, even the street corners if necessary.

The radio is still being discussed by all parties as an adjunct to the speaking campaigns, but it is already apparent that old fashioned stumping campaigns are not to be shelved in favor of the newest form of campaigning.

Road House Party Ends in Murder

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mansfield, Mass., July 29.—A gay party in the road house conducted by Mrs. Clara Williams in East Mansfield was broken up at midnight by the murder of the proprietress. One of the party of young men shot the woman following an argument over money. A gun was taken from Mrs. Williams's son when he tried to defend his mother.

Mrs. Williams had previously conducted a "baby farm" and a rooming house at Boston.

NEGRO ARRESTED HERE IS WANTED IN NEWBURGH ALSO

Jesse Williams, the negro being held by the Kingston police as the man who committed a number of burglaries in the uptown section, is wanted at Newburgh. It is believed that he is the man who entered the home of Frederick E. Topping in Newburgh. Mr. Topping came to Kingston the first of the week and identified the Odd Fellows' pin which Williams was wearing when arrested here, as the one stolen from his home. Neither of the watches taken from the Topping home have been recovered.

AGENT NOT APPROVED BY EDUCATION BOARD

For the past day or so a woman book agent has been canvassing the city selling books for the State Educators' Association. Information has reached the local board of education to the effect that the inference has been made that this work has the approval of the board. Officers of the board wish to have it understood that this is not the case and that they have nothing to do with the sale of these books.

JAPAN HAS HEAVY RAIN STORM DAMAGE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tokio, July 29.—Eight hundred houses were inundated in the Kwansai district today following the heaviest rains since 1919. Two persons were killed at Koito, in an electric storm. Heavy damage was done by flood at Osaka. Property loss is estimated at hundreds of thousands of yen.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

UNUSUAL ZOO VISIT

Billie Brownie was invited to pay a visit to a zoo, which made him very much pleased.

He was always pleased when he received these invitations. And those back in Brownieland and Fairyland were pleased, too, because they knew that Billie would come back and tell them all the news.

First of all he saw the True Sea Snake.

"I'm a poisonous snake," he told Billie Brownie. "Oh yes, indeed, I'm poisonous."

He seemed quite proud of this fact.

"I might as well be poisonous. It's safer this way. And that was what the first True Sea Snake or True Sea Serpent thought, too.

"So this is the family custom. It would not be my place to change this custom.

"Nor would it have been the place

He Told Billie Brownie What a Hunter and Fighter He Was.

of any sea serpent to have taken this responsibility upon himself.

"We like being poisonous, too. It is a means of protection to us."

"I can understand that," agreed Billie Brownie. "Aren't you rather unusual?" he asked. "I've never seen you before."

"I am one of the first to be in a zoo," he said. "In fact I may be the only one. But of this I am not sure.

"I am supposed to be quite interesting and the people in the zoo are all quite excited about having me here.

"Well, it is nice to feel that you are welcome. I don't suppose all would extend such a welcome to me.

"I have an idea from the remarks some of the visitors to the zoo make that if I had gone to visit some of these visitors here they would have given me anything but a welcome.

"Oh well, I do not mind. Do you admire my handsome coloring?"

"I think it's beautiful," Billie Brownie said. "And your tail reminds me of a paddle.

"I've been looking at it and I've just discovered what I know it looks like."

"You've discovered correctly," said the True Sea Serpent. "It is flattened out so that it looks like a paddle and I use it as my own special paddle.

"I always have it with me, as you can understand. It comes in very handily, or should I say it comes in very usefully in a tail fashion or a paddle fashion? Handily, or handy, perhaps, would be the wrong word to use about one's tail.

"But then I can't bother about such details.

"There is Spike-Tailed Lizard in this house. And there are a lot of snakes here, too.

"There are some frogs and some toads and a number of other creatures if you wanted to visit them.

"But I hope you will want to see me and spend most of your time with me, for you really were especially invited to come and call on me.

"I am so unusual that they think you should see me so you could tell about me to others.

"I hope you will speak of my handsome coloring and I hope you will speak of my tail, or the tail end of me.

"I am so glad you noticed that.

"You might say I am of a good size, too.

"When it is so unusual to have one of my family in a zoo and in the Reptile or Snake House, as this new abode of mine is called, it is worth speaking about."

Billie Brownie left the Sea Serpent then after a polite good-by for he had also been asked to see Fisher or Pennant's Marten.

He told Billie what a hunter and fighter he was and how bold and brave he could be, and of the fact that he could climb any tree at all, better far, he knew, than any boy could climb.

Then Billie went back to Brownieland for particularly he wanted to tell about the unusual sea serpent with the paddle-like tail. He spoke of Fisher, too, for Fisher was not usually to be seen in a zoo.

So Billie's visit to the zoo this time was really quite unusual.

Too Busy Getting Up

Little Bobby came crying into the house, rubbing the places where he had been butted by a pet sheep. "But what did you do," his mother demanded, "when the sheep knocked you down?" "I didn't do nothin'," Bobby declared protestingly. "I was gettin' up all the time."—Onward.

Flower in the crannied wall,
I pluck you out of the crannies;

SUMMER FOOD SUGGESTIONS

For a picnic or a summer luncheon dish a most satisfying meat may be prepared using veal and chicken as follows:

Jellied Chicken.—Wipe a knuckle of veal and put it into a large kettle with enough cold water to cover. Bring slowly to the simmering point. Add a six-pound fowl and cook gently until the meat is tender, adding, when half done, a teaspoonful of salt. Remove the fowl and set aside to cool, when it should be cut into slices. Put the lean meat from the veal knuckle through a meat grinder, using one and one-half cupfuls. Let the stock simmer until reduced to a pint, add pepper and salt to season, with a little onion juice; cool and strain through a cloth. To the chopped veal add one cupful of stock and season to taste with salt, paprika and lemon and onion juice. When well-mixed add one cupful of chopped celery. Place a bread pan in ice water and pour in the stock about one-eighth of an inch deep. When firm decorate with sliced, hard cooked eggs or canned pimentoes cut into strips. Add the remaining stock very slowly, not to disturb the decoration. When firm add alternate layers of sliced chicken and veal, until all is used. Cover the top with buttered paper and place over it a weight. Let stand over night on ice. Remove from the pan and serve garnished with water cress.

Cucumber and Pineapple Salad.—Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-fourth of a cup of salt and three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Add one-half cupful of vinegar and the juice of half a lemon. Set aside to cool. Just as the mixture begins to congeal stir in one cupful of crushed and a cupful of grated cucumber. Pour into small molds which have been dipped in cold water. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Serve with a mayonnaise dressing, using three-fourths of a cupful and adding one-half cupful of whipped cream.

WEST PARK.

West Park, July 29.—The many friends of Mrs. John Traver will be glad to know that she returned from the Kingston Hospital on Friday much improved in health. During her absence her sister-in-law Miss Traver of Poughkeepsie has been visiting her brother John Traver.

Miss Graves of New York has been a recent guest of Miss Helen Smith at Heartsease and Miss C. M. Hall also of Heartsease is entertaining Miss Agnes Pratt of Malden Bridge, Columbia county.

Miss Beatrice Schwartz has been spending several days of the past week in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Connor spent the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Otto Drake in Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Covert, Miss Elmira Covert, Mrs. Berrian, Miss Blanche Berrian and Oscar Welander of Centerville and Mrs. William Decker of Highland were callers at the rectory on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Covert have sold their boarding house near Centerville to a chiropractor of New York, and have bought the homestead of the late Mrs. Strongman. Mrs. Covert's mother, Mrs. Taylor, of Brooklyn is the guest of Mrs. Carrie Gindrat.

Mrs. Vincent Quin also has guests from Jamaica.

Much work is being done at Ascension Cemetery under the oversight of the rector. Much grass has been cut off from roadways and lots whose owners have paid for such work. Other lots need improving and an expenditure of $2.00 for each lot will secure labor and skill and the work will be well done. The Rev. Richard C. Searing, rector of Ascension Church, West Park, made an appeal two weeks ago for a special offering for a payment upon the bill for placing a concrete roofing on the church and on the past Sunday received $328 toward the said payment. Whereat all Ascension Church people are rejoicing.

Sneezing Superstitions

Among the ancients sneezing to the right was considered fortunate and to the left unlucky.

IDEAL PARK.

Ideal Park, July 28.—Miss Martha McLean and Miss Beatrice Powley called on Miss Mabelle DeVall Friday evening.

Alfred P. Post of Philadelphia, is spending his vacation with his family in Ideal Park.

Norman Imway of Brooklyn, is spending the week with his family at the "Mrs. George Toby" Cottage.

A number from this place enjoyed the dance at West Shokan last Saturday evening.

Miss Fanny Gardner of Mt. Tremper, enjoyed a motor trip to Kingston recently with Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison of Ideal Park.

Miss Helen DeVall spent the week-end in Kingston with her sister, Miss M. N. DeVall.

All were sorry to learn of the damage done Mrs. Randall's house. It was struck by lightning recently.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Powley are at their summer home, "Camp Kooloff" for the summer.

All are grieved to learn of the death of Miss Sarah Hogeston in Steep Rocks, she having spent many summers at the Club House here.

Miss Mabelle DeVall is spending her vacation with her parents in Ideal Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bennet of Brooklyn, are at their camp here for the season.

Miss Helen Smith of Kingston, is spending the week with friends here.

L. E. DeVall and party of friends enjoyed a motor trip to Albany Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roberts and family of Toronto, Canada, are visiting Mrs. Robert's aunt, Mrs. L. E. DeVall, in Ideal Park.

Mrs. B. K. Lawson of Kingston, is spending a few weeks at Mrs. Frank Tobey's Cottage here.

A surprise party was given Mr. and Mrs. L. E. DeVall at their home in Ideal Park last Saturday evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent. Among those present were: Miss Bernedette Forst, Mrs. Brown, Miss Hanson, Miss Martha McLean of Brooklyn, Miss Helen DeVall, Mrs. Fanny Gardner, Burton Gardner, Burton Lane, Ernest Gardner, Tony Randall, Mr. and Mrs. DeVall and daughter Mabelle, of Kingston.

Ted Steinburg and Nathan Head were callers in Ideal Park recently.

SCIENTIFIC CORRECTION

The science of optometry is practiced with skilled exactness here.

Kingstonian portable showers are quickly put up in any bathroom, old or new, and can go with you when you move.

No alterations are necessary; a screw driver puts it up. Doesn't interfere with use of faucets. A Kingstonian shower will give years of service and bath-a-day pleasure. Inexpensive, too!

To Investigate Sailors' Bonus

Bureau of Navigation Failed to Check Faulty Applications Sent From State Bonus Bureau Causing Delay—Present Rate of Letters Will be Doubled.

Bonus applications of sailors of New York state, who served during the World War, have been delayed because the bureau of navigation at Washington has made no reply to inquiries from the state bonus bureau to check applications, according to a statement of Captain George K. Shuler, who as state treasurer is a member of the bonus commission. Captain Frank S. Harris of Albany, has been sent to Washington to take up the matter with the officials of the bureau of navigation in an effort to expedite the work of paying the former sailors their state bonus.

Every faulty application from former sailors was sent to the bureau of navigation for checking purposes. No reply has been made by that bureau and the result has been the holding up or applications.

Twenty additional workers have been added to the bonus force and twenty employes have volunteered to work nights. This night force will attack the 200,000 unopened letters which have accumulated in the department. The present rate of 1,500 letters a day will be increased with the addition of the new force to 3,000 applications a day.

The night force will have instruction to pay particular attention to applications which were sent back to veterans on account of incorrectness. These applications are returned to the veterans with a blue envelope for returning and all blue envelopes will be opened first by the bonus commission and given preference over original applications in the payment of checks.

Ulster County Health Clinics

At the request of the Ulster county committee on prevention of tuberculosis, Dr. Frank W. Laidlaw, district state health officer, has arranged with the New York state department of health, to hold four consultation clinics for diseases of the lungs at the following places:

Saugerties, Firemen's Hall, July 29.

Ellenville, Hunt Memorial Hall, July 30.

Highland, Highland school, July 31.

Kingston, city, hall, August 1.

The clinic hours will be from 1 to 4 p. m.

Dr. Robert E. Plunkett and Dr. Lyman I. Thayer of the state department of health, will examine the patients and X-ray pictures will be taken of all suspicious cases. Anyone desiring an examination will be admitted upon presentation of a card signed by the family physician, or, if there is no family physician, by the health officer.

In an effort to assist the family physicians, these clinics have been held throughout the state for the past four years and large numbers of people have been referred by their doctors for consultation and X-ray. Aside from known cases of tuberculosis, patients who have been referred for examinations have been of two types: Persons presenting such symptoms as bronchitis, asthma, coughs, persistent colds, loss of weight, undue fatigue and symptoms of like character, and persons, especially children, who have been exposed to tuberculosis.

There is no doubt that the decrease in tuberculosis is due largely to the early diagnosis and prompt treatment of beginning cases and to the close supervision and periodic re-examination of exposed children.

Matters Before The Surrogate

In the matter of the probate of the last will and testament of Christina Koster of the city of Kingston, Surrogate Kaufman has issued citations returnable September 8. The value of the estate is $11,000 real; $500 personal. The executors named in the will are Frieda R. Koster, daughter, and Albert C. W. Koster, son, who are the legatees and devisees. V. B. Van Wagonen is the attorney for the petitioners.

In the estate of Austin H. Haynes of the city of Kingston, letters testamentary have been issued to Bertha M. Haynes and Asenath F. Hayes. Value of estate $5,000 real; $3,000 personal. Joseph M. Fowler, attorney for the petitioners.

Letters of administration have been issued to Anna Budington Searle in the estate of Anna C. Hawley and of Arietta Trumpbour of the city of Kingston. Philip Elting, attorney for the petitioner.

In the matter of the judicial settlement of the accounts of Mathilda Rightmyer as administratrix of the estate of Levi Rightmyer of the town of Saugerties, account of proceedings filed and decree ordered. Byron L. Davis, attorney for the petitioner.

MINOR AUTO ACCIDENTS REPORTED TO POLICE

A collision between the cars of Andrew Cherney of Glasco and J. E. Treviey of Ithaca at Hoffman street and Broadway was reported Monday to the police.

Monday evening the cars of Jacob Eanist of 70 Ravine street and a car from Parish's Garage came together at Broadway and West Union street. Both cars were somewhat damaged.

Van Kleeck's bus, driven by Chauncey Van Demark, and a car driven by Grace Farber of 32 East Union street collided Monday at Albany and Clinton avenues. There was slight damage.

Munson Loses Divorce Suit

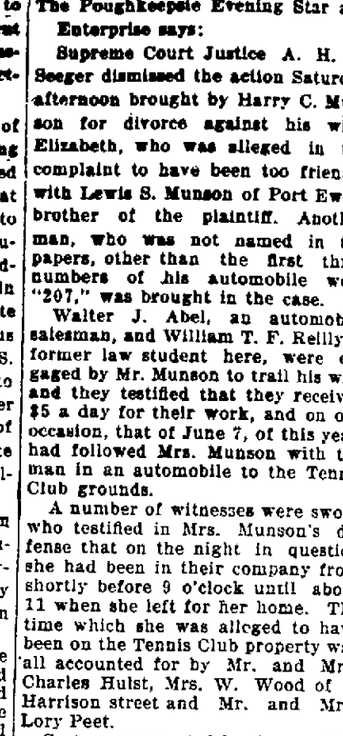
The Poughkeepsie Evening Star and Enterprise says:

Supreme Court Justice A. H. F. Seeger dismissed the action Saturday afternoon brought by Harry C. Munson for divorce against his wife, Elizabeth, who was alleged in the complaint to have been too friendly with Lewis S. Munson of Port Ewen, brother of the plaintiff. Another man, who was not named in the papers, other than the first three numbers of his automobile were "207," was brought in the case.

Walter J. Abel, an automobile salesman, and William T. F. Reilly, a former law student here, were engaged by Mr. Munson to trail his wife and they testified that they received $5 a day for their work, and on one occasion, that of June 7, of this year, had followed Mrs. Munson with the man in an automobile to the Tennis Club grounds.

A number of witnesses were sworn who testified in Mrs. Munson's defense that on the night in question she had been in their company from shortly before 9 o'clock until about 11 when she left for her home. The time which she was alleged to have been on the Tennis Club property was all accounted for by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hulst, Mrs. W. Wood of 2 Harrison street and Mr. and Mrs. Lory Peet.

Costs were granted by the court in dismissing the complaint for lack of corroboration of the testimony given by the paid employes of the plaintiff. Munson is well known here and is now Grand Orient of the Poughkeepsie Lodge of Orientals. He was formerly employed in the furniture department of Luckey, Platt and Company.



The joke about the fellow who counterfeited German marks now sounds more plausible since it was discovered that somebody has been using dye on white salmon and selling it for red.

Why do you have those rails there? Is it to prevent people from stealing your goods?

No. They are for people to catch hold of when they hear our prices.

Mrs. McCarty—An' phwat does your son Teddy be doin' now, Mrs. Flynn?

Mrs. Flynn—He's doin' toime, Mrs. McCarty, but it's not his fault that he's a pickpocket, poor bye! They won't let him on the police force on account av 'is lungs.

A "crisis" is the situation that occurs when both political parties begin slinging mud just before an election.

Naturally.

On his tour of the district an inspector of city high schools came before a class of girls. He wrote upon the blackboard, "LXXX." Then peering over the rime of his spectacles to a good-looking girl in the first row, he asked:

"Young lady, I'd like to have you tell me what that means."

"Love and Kisses" the girl replied.

What's wrong with this sentence: The alarm clock rang and the man leaped happily out of bed.

"My life's just like an alphabet," complained the stenographer, "Just one letter after the other."

Mrs. Fleischmann Gets Divorce

Granted by French Court on Ground of Incompatibility—No Scandal Allegations Involved in Case.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 29.—The application of Mrs. Julius Fleischmann, wife of Julius Fleischmann, the American "yeast king," for divorce was granted today.

The ground for the divorce was incompatibility.

The name of Mrs. Fleischmann became linked in newspaper stories recently with that of Jay O'Brien, the polo player, but counsel for Julius Fleischmann, the yeast manufacturer, denied that Mrs. Fleischmann contemplated marrying O'Brien.

The lawyer, Dudley Field Malone, also denied that Fleischmann intended giving his wife a bequest of $5,000,000. As a "personal friend" of Fleischmann's he declared "no scandalous allegations of any kind were discussed or alleged," between Fleischmann and his wife.

The Fleischmanns had been separated for more than a year. They are said to have parted on the friendliest of terms. Mrs. Fleischmann remained in Paris with her children.

Noted Men Clash Near Ellenville

Arkansas Senator and New Yorker Have Animated Dispute Following Auto Accident—Whether Senator "Punched" or "Pushed" Undetermined.

A New York despatch says:

A quarrel between Senator Caraway of Arkansas and G. F. Clarke of New York, in which Mr. Clarke sought the senator's arrest on a charge of assault but was restrained from pressing his charge by William D. Cunningham, formerly judge of the court of claims, was reported from Ellenville today.

The dispute, according to the report, began in the highway two and one-half miles north of Ellenville Sunday afternoon and was continued in the main street of that village. It ended when Mr. Cunningham, whose services had been solicited in preparation of a complaint for a warrant succeeded in smoothing out the matter.

Mr. Clarke said today his car collided with that occupied by Senator Caraway, his wife and three sons, when the latter stopped abruptly. Slight damage was done to both. Clarke upbraided Paul Wyatt Caraway, one of the senator's sons, who was driving, for not signaling intention to stop. He was advised, he said to "keep his eye on the stop signal."

Further words led to the suggestion by Clarke that the incident be taken up with the village authorities when Ellenville was reached. Senator Caraway demurred, he said, whereupon Clarke drove ahead, took position in the middle of the street, and stopped the Caraway car when it reached town.

According to his version, Senator Caraway took control of the car from his son and insisted in driving on. Clarke said he reached in and shut off the switch. The senator, he said, responded by alighting, and aiming a blow at Clarke, which knocked off the latter's glasses.

Police Chief Harrison Barnes was summoned and asked by Clarke to arrest the senator. Barnes said a warrant would be necessary as he had not witnessed any attack. The party adjourned to Mr. Cunningham's office to swear to complaints.

Barnes said tonight Clarke declaredhe had been struck, while Caraway insisted he had only been "pushed away." Mr. Clarke said the senator apoligized at Mr. Cunningham's suggestion, and "the affair was dropped."

At Senator Caraway's home in Washington tonight it was said the family had not returned from a trip to West Point and were not expected before Wednesday.

Senator Robinson, senior Arkansas member of the upper house, was expelled July 14 from the Chevy Chase Country Club at Washington for punching the eye of Dr. James F. Mitchell, prominent surgeon.

NEWBURGH MAN HELD FOR GRAND JURY ACTION

After a hearing before Judge Schirick in police court Monday afternoon, George A. Robinson of Newburgh was held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He was arrested several days ago by Officers Camp and Kuehn and the hearing adjourned to Monday. Robinson was represented by Attorney Frank W. Brooks. He furnished bail for his appearance before the grand jury.

Give Prohibition a Show.

Editor, Kingston Freeman:

In your editorial of July 25th you say that the prohibition amendment has put a stop to our trying any experiments in dealing with the liquor traffic. You also say that it (prohibition) is here to last for all times. It is very gratifying to the "drys" that you are beginning to feel that way about it.

However we can not agree with you, that the time for experimenting is past. At present we are trying the very unsatisfactory experiment of the nullification of the 18th amendment of the federal constitution. I refer to the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law.

Now we propose to try another experiment. Enact a new enforcement law, in harmony with, and supplementing the federal constitution, and elect a governor and other executive officers, who will enforce the law.

We have tried nullification.

Now let us try enforcement.

We have not got to the end of our capacity for experiment yet. Give prohibition a show.

Scholarships In Agriculture

Success in farming is not merely a matter of luck, or cooperation, or favorable legislation. People who succeed in farming today—and one finds such people everywhere—are, for the most part, men and women who have learned to make full use of their own powers and of the experience and knowledge accumulated by others. Now, to teach people to make fuller use of their own capacities—mental and physical—and to impart to them the latest information on farming and farm life, is the precise object of the short courses offered by the state agricultural colleges. Short as these courses are, they go a long way in improving the mind of the student and in enriching him with a store of valuable knowledge.

It is largely because of the training they receive at college that short course graduates are to be found among the most successful and influential members in any rural community. Also it is primarily because of their training that the winners of the scholarships so often succeed. Records show that a considerable proportion of them have landed well-paying, responsible positions, while others have in a short time been enabled to acquire part ownership in farms.

The scholarships offered by the Jewish Agricultural Society are available to men and women with practical experience, but without the necessary training in modern methods of agriculture. The scholarships apply only to courses given by the state agricultural colleges under the designation of "Winter Short Courses." No restriction is imposed upon the successful applicant in the matter of the selection of courses. He is expected, however, to choose subjects which would prove to him practical importance and application. Girls who select agricultural courses are advised to include as many subjects relating to household management as the program permits. In every case, the scholarship covers all essential expenses incurred at the college while the student is engaged in the study of the course for which the award has been made.

The award of scholarships is made to applicants who attain the highest score on the following points: 1, practical experience; 2, general intelligence; 3, earnestness of purpose; 4, character.

Those aspiring to win a scholarship should make an application to the Jewish Agricultural Society, using a blank form provided for this purpose. At the same time a request should be made to the state agricultural college for a catalogue of short courses and for an application blank. Application to the college should then be made with a request for an admission card. The admission card is to be forwarded to the Jewish Agricultural Society, together with the composition, if the latter has not been sent before.

The composition is to be of about 500 words, written in English and is to deal with the writer's personal experience in some phase of farming or farm life. In appearance and in contents it should represent the best that the applicant can do.

The composition and all other necessary documents must be submitted prior to September first.

Further information may be obtained by applying to the Extension Department of the Jewish Agricultural Society, Inc., 301 East 14th street, New York city.

Legion Block Party Tonight

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold a block party this evening on Pine Grove avenue.

A concert will be given from eight to nine o'clock by Maisenhelder's orchestra, which will furnish music for dancing from nine o'clock until midnight.

Refreshments will be served at the refreshment booth. Tickets may be obtained at the entrance.

Members of the auxiliary who have promised to furnish cake and candy are requested to deliver them early in the evening.

BURGLARS WERE ACTIVE SUNDAY IN CATSKILL

Some time during Sunday night burglars entered the Ford garage and headquarters of Lacy & Norton, Catskill, got away with $500 in cash and did $500 worth of damage when they blew up two safes, pummeled and robbed the money drawers and generally ransacked the garage. The thieves left checks to a considerable amount scattered on the floor.

The burglary was discovered early Monday morning when two of the employes of the garage arrived to go to work. Sheriff Pierce was summoned at once and State Troopers were also notified. An effort was made to take finger prints but the burglars evidently wore gloves. All the evidence pointed to the fact that the job had been done by professionals.

SENATOR KAVANAUGH VISITED FRIENDS HERE

State Senator Frederick W. Kavanaugh of Waterford was a visitor in town Monday calling on old friends. Senator Kavanaugh was present at the opening of the Rondout creek bridge and was a guest of honor at a dinner given by Charles A. Warren and friends at Mr. Warren's residence. He is one of the principal owners of the corporation engaged in surfacing highways with willite. Recently a conference of leading Republicans was held in Saratoga county when it was decided to boom Senator Kavanaugh for the nomination for the office of state comptroller if the gubernatorial candidate comes from any section of the state other than northeastern New York.

Colorful Embroidery Is Used on Black and White

One of the unique dresses of the season is in white crepe, with tight black satin sleeves joined at the shoulders with a band of green and gold embroidery. The narrow center panel, covered with the embroidery, holds a ripple of black satin at either side. The slight platting at the low waistline suffices for a belt.

Love Link Chains Bind Women to Today's Mode

Women may have relinquished their fetters of slavery to man, but fashion holds them closely linked. More than a fad, a real fashion are the love link chains that bind women to fashion in more ways than one, remarks the Dry Goods Economist. They hold milady by the throat, for chokers or long necklaces adopt the same heavy links. Furthermore, a gold powder-box and lipstick holder are united by a similar long chain to be entwined around milady's arm. Nor is this all, for Paris now sends us black suede and moire envelopes with a tailored gold link chain down one side ending in the tiniest padlock. Fobs also dangle on slave-link chains ending in a crystal ring within which sways a carnelian Chinese god.

Trimmed Hats Again

After a period of hats comparatively untrimmed there is a concerted effort to bring back the flower-trimmed summer hat. Those of yellow straw ornamented with field flowers are particularly attractive and flattering.

Shunned by the Wise

Tricks and treachery are the practice of fools that have not wit enough to be honest.—Benjamin Franklin.

To Have Chic Turban From Strip of Crepe

Something new and unusual in the line of hats was observed recently on a young and pretty woman, returning to this country from abroad, writes a fashion correspondent. On first glance, and indeed until the observer was undeceived, it seemed to be a tiny, closely wound turban, more chic because it was so small and fitted her head so securely.

Later on, by request, the wearer obligingly took it off and held it up to view, and the curious news seeker found, to her surprise, that it was just a long, straight piece of crepe, slit up the middle and molded into shape upon the head.

The hat in question bore the label of a smart designer, but an ingenious style seeker could easily concoct one at home or take the idea to her favorite milliner.

The piece of crepe, of single thickness if heavy enough, should be about thirty-two inches long and half a yard wide. It is slit up the middle lengthwise, all except the last 18 inches, or whatever the measurement of the wearer's head is from brow over the top of her head to the nape of her neck. The single wide end is then gathered into a handsome ornament, which forms the front of the hat.

When it is to be worn the ornament is adjusted at the front, the end of the long slit coming at the back of the neck, and the two ends are crossed, twisted slightly, and wound around the head, over the front ornament, and finally tucked in just back of the ear line.

Shoes of Odd Leather Are Worn by Europeans

Fashionable European summer resorts this year assume certain aspects of a zoo in ladies' footwear, which has even taken to monkey skin sandals, soft and pliable and guaranteed not to squeak. The vogue for odd leather for shoes of all kinds started with the first blush of spring, the earliest of the season's novelties in this line to arrive being alligator slippers, especially recommended for dancing glides. Running a close second for honors were the snakeskin sandals, and then came in rapid succession shoes of skins of lizards, crocodiles and even the hide of the elephant has been brought from the jungle to add to the thrills of the crowds at the seaside and mountain hotels.

Miniature parrots in bright red, blue and green, have fluttered in, too, to adorn the handles of milady's parasol for the summer.

Determined to Bob

Canton, Ohio.—Martha Louders, fifteen, wanted to bob her hair. Her father, A. A. Louders, a farmer, living north of Canton, objected, so Martha sheared her tresses the other night, slid her pocketbook and then tied herself to her bed. Her father, after hearing a story of an attack by a burglar, who, his daughter said, bobbed her hair, called Sheriff W. C. Kirk. After some questioning, the sheriff said, the girl admitted cutting her hair herself and tying herself to the bed.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 29, 1924.

Not one of the judges of the Irish Free State's highest court can read or write the old Erse or Gaelic language, although the law requires them to do so. Too many laws—like this one—are mere sops thrown by politicians to the factions or the galleries.

Another famine is threatened in Russia, but, instead of making plans to save the country and itself, the Soviet government is employing all its energies to save itself by bringing about Communist uprisings in Germany, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia.

That devoted Republican of the West Virginia mountains who has named his twin sons Coolidge and Hell-and-Maria calls to mind those devout negro parents of Georgia who, delighted with the story of the two men sent by Joshua to spy out the land of Canaan, innocently christened their baby daughter Rahab-the-Harlot.

The Hon. Charles B. Hall of Philadelphia's Seventh ward is determined to keep his 100 per cent Americanism untarnished during the whole of his two weeks in Europe. He is quoted as saying on the eve of his departure for France: "I'm not going to be carried away by foreign tricks and manners. No, sir; I'm coming back to America in a couple of weeks benefited by my trip, but in no sense influenced against our institutions. I'm too old a bird to fall for the tinsel and gewgaws of Paris and other foreign places." Even a younger "bird" could hardly expect to be caught by Europe's chaff or even by Europe's values in two weeks.

The proposition to make campaign speeches as short as may be, though welcome, is a reminder that the art of stopping at the right time and place in a public address seems not to have been as carefully studied and sufficiently developed as is desirable. There has not been the advance that there should have been since the sixteenth century, when the alert and observant Montaigne, in regard to the long-windedness of even the better orators, wrote: "I see some, even among those who talk pertinently enough, who would but can not stop short in their career: for whilst they are seeking out a handsome period to close with, they go on talking at random."

THIRD TERM.

Democrats who figure that Governor Smith is their one best bet are trying to prevail upon him to run again. The governor at the same time, is during, perhaps, the hazards of a third term. Some will contend that the third term does not apply to him because he had served one term when he was beaten. But the fact is that were the governor to run again and win he would have been elected three times and defeated once. Notwithstanding the break between his first and second terms the third term problem comes to the fore, and not modified.

Many Democrats regret that the governor is not as popular as he was, but they feel that even with his diminished popularity he is their biggest vote getter. This being the case, in the opinion of quite a few he can do more to keep Democrats in jobs than anybody who is available. Wherever politics are discussed it is conceded that the only candidate the Democrats have to make any showing against the Republican ticket this year is Smith. Lunn stories not being entertained in the remotest manner. But in the face of everything else is the third term handicap, of which the governor never loses sight.

There is more or less speculation on Governor Smith. Some hold he will not consent to take the chance. Others are confident that he will run again, notwithstanding that he knows seeking a third term is a dangerous undertaking, more often disastrous. Those who claim he will lead the state ticket say that he will be forced to do so as a matter of loyalty and that while he might prefer to return to his private business the situation is such that he will have to make the sacrifice.

That the governor fully realizes the weight Bryan is to the national ticket in the east and the weight Davis is to it in the west is conceded and probably makes him see that national conditions, plus seeking a third term, will give him all the political exercise he desires. It would prompt him to decline, perhaps, were he not politically obligated to his party and compelled to obey rules of the game, come what will.

OTHER CAUSES FOR PAINFUL FEET.

I was just wondering if the day will ever come when people who find that their feet are paining them almost all the time, will consult their physician or a foot specialist, instead of going into a store and buying pair of arch supports.

There can be no question that weak arches are the cause of a great many of the cases of painful feet, but the majority of foot ailments are not due to weak arches.

And even where the arch is weak or has relaxed, putting on plates—hard metal plates—is the last thing that should be done.

Metal plates, properly fitted from a cast of your feet, is the thing to do after everything else has failed.

But with the ordinary arch due to a weakening of the ligaments, a light support of felt or other yielding substance, can be worn when you are at your work.

And after work the exercises of walking on the sides of the feet, then on toes, and then on heels, will strengthen up the arches and artificial supports will not be necessary.

But as a matter of fact, many cases of painful feet are not due to the arches at all.

The same thing that causes a pain in your knee, in your shoulder, in your elbow, in your spine may be causing the pain in the feet.

An attack of typhoid fever, or pneumonia, influenza or the usual infection from bad teeth, pyorrhea, a lazy intestine, or from the ear or nose, anywhere in fact, can set up the pain in the foot, and why it should all be blamed on weak arches is beyond me.

I have said more than once that people earn their living as much by their feet as by their head.

Painful feet interfere with your regular work, and the pain is so irritating to your nervous system that you are rendered unfit to give your best to your work or to recreation.

Don't put up with painful feet. It isn't necessary.

Don't be satisfied with rubbing on liniments. Hot water and liniments will ease the pain, but that isn't getting at the cause.

Go into the matter with your doctor and try to locate the exact thing in your system that is causing the pain in the joints of the feet.

ENJOYING CITIZENS' CAMP AT PLATTSBURG.

July 26, 1924.

Editor, The Freeman:

Perhaps some of the fellows who are coming up here for August would like to know something about this camp, so I hope that you will give this space in one of your editions.

After a month's experience I think the C. M. T. C. a great thing for a young fellow.

We start the day with reveille at 5:45 a. m. There are four one hour periods of drill, in the morning, with ten minute rests in between.

Most of the afternoon is taken up with athletics, such as boxing, baseball, swimming, tennis, etc.

Retreat blows at 5:15 and from then on till taps (10 p m.) our time is our own. Some of the evening's amusements are movies, band concerts, dancing, and athletics at the local "Y."

The chows at this camp are all clean, wholesome food, prepared in a tasty manner.

Much work was spent by the government to get a good class of fellows at the C. M. T. C., and their labor has been repaid.

Yours,
W. KENNETH KUKUK.

P. S.—I should add that I enjoy my Freeman and The Freeman 16 hour service immensely.

JOHN BOYLE DIRECTOR AT ST. MARY'S CAMP

John Boyle has been appointed leader of the Boy Scout Troops two and three of St. Mary's and started his work Monday at Camp Wapanackie at Mt. Tremper. Boyle, who succeeds James McNamara, who died while at camp Monday last, should prove a good director as he is an athlete and has had considerable training along camp lines. He will remain at the camp until the close of the season.

WHY

Some Animals Can Go Long Periods Without Foods.

The capacity for men and animals for fasting is always an interesting subject and one on which the last word has not been said, especially in view of the fact that our ideas as to the requisite essentials of diet have been much modified by the researches made during the last few years and particularly by our newly acquired knowledge of the part played by vitamines. Some curious facts with respect to the capacity for fasting as exhibited by various animals are cited by Siegmund Urabin in a late number of the Umschau (Frankfurt), says the American Review of Reviews. He begins by observing:

"The power of the camel to do without water for weeks and of the giant snakes to live for more than a year without taking food is regarded in most works on zoology as representing specific peculiarities of these animals. But if there were a general knowledge of the ability of many animals to fast for very long periods of time these instances would not be overemphasized. It is indeed generally known that even mammals are able to fast for months during their winter hibernation, but it seems to be almost unknown among the lower animals. The power of fasting is much more widespread in them than was formerly supposed."

Mr. Urabin then refers to an experience of his youth when he put certain snails which had already withdrawn into their shells and closed the opening thereof, as is their custom, into a box, whereupon he forgot them for a period of more than a year and a half. He supposed they were inevitably dead, but when he put them into a vessel filled with water, much to his surprise, they came out of their shells and crawled gayly about on the table.

Why Fly Swatters Are Needed During Winter

There is evidence that flies survive the winter in the larva and pupa state. But this accounts for only part of the flies seen in the late winter and early spring. The Department of Agriculture has come to the tentative conclusion, after long experiments and observations, that most of the flies seen in the early spring are the offspring, not the survivors, of adult flies which escaped destruction at the hands of Jack Frost in the fall. Flies are known to emerge from manure heaps as late as December. Some of these are attracted to kitchens, restaurants, markets and such places by the odor of food. In these warm places, where there is food and a breeding medium, they continue to breed. Consequently there are some adult flies all winter long, although no individual fly lives throughout the winter. This theory is confirmed by the fact that there are so few flies at first in the spring.

How Salt Helps Whitewash

A little salt added to whitewash improves it. Some one in the salt business or the lime business learns of it and advertises it and thereby increases the sale both of salt and of lime. Silicate of soda added to the water in the hot-water heating apparatus of a small house is carried everywhere and precipitated on the internal walls of the pipes, where it forms a protective film against rust—a discovery that proved profitable to the manufacturers of water glass. New uses for familiar substances are constantly discovered, and a new demand for them is created.—Youth's Companion.

Why She Remembers

One Sunday not very long ago I forgot to bring my collection to church. I tried to borrow some from my friends, but unfortunately they had no extra change. After the sermon I waited nervously while the collection plate was being passed and the congregation sang "Rock of Ages." As the collector reached me and I made it known that I had no money the people sang "Nothing in My Hand I Bring." He smothered a smile with difficulty, and after church told my friends, who made fun of me. I haven't forgotten my collection since.—Chicago Journal.

Why Nautical Mile Is Long

The statute mile is based on the arbitrary fixing of the length of a smaller unit of measure, while the nautical mile is the foot measure of this one minute of arc at the equator. There are 60 minutes in each degree, 360 degrees in the circumference; therefore, there are 21,600 minutes or nautical miles in the distance around the earth at the equator. Dividing a nautical mile into the foot measure of this land mile, there are 6,080 feet in the nautical mile, while there are but 5,280 feet in the statute or land mile.

How Many Kinds of Mussels?

Of the 50 varieties of mussels found in the Mississippi and its tributaries 40 are known to lend themselves to pearl culture. The bureau of fisheries has spread mussel spawn through 350 miles of the river with the expectation of increasing the crop of mussels more than 3,000,000 from the one sowing.

Compromise to Safeguard Loan

London Conference Discussing Proposals for Protection of $200,000,000 Loan to Germany—Compromise Proposals Considered.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 29.—French experts attending he Inter-Allied Reparation Conference were engaged today upon the draft of a compromise proposal for the protection of the owners of bonds which will be issued to cover the proposed $200,000,000 German loan.

It is understood the proposal provides that any interested nation may ask for arbitration in the event it believes that sanctions (penalties) which may be imposed upon Germany, are injuring the rights of bond holders.

The international bankers met at noon to consider the propositions which had been put forward Monday. Chief of these was the suggestion of Colonel J. A. Logan, official observer of the United States, that the question of German default and penalties be put over until the proposed German loan is ready for flotation.

With both Americans and French offering "compromise proposals," hope was high that the conference would be able to reach a definite agreement before the end of the week, by which time the Dawes plan can be put into execution by the middle of October.

The "big five," heads of the delegations, met two and a half hours while the various delegates conferred. All were striving to find common ground for working out the American, Belgian, and French proposals to safeguard the loan.

Members of the French delegation consulted with the international bankers.

Colonel Logan's offer of Monday, which was advanced to meet the opposition of the international bankers, was hailed by the British press today as saving the conference from fatal deadlock.

Belief that the conference would invite Berlin to send a delegation to participate in the parley upon the terms of equality, was premature. The Germans have not yet been formally invited.

KEENEY'S THEATRE

TONIGHT and WEDNESDAY

If 100,000,000 people see NORMA TALMADGE in "ASHES OF VENGEANCE"

100,000,000 hearts will cry out

There is no greater picture

In a hundred million hearts one love will re-echo exaltingly—

In a hundred million memories one picture will live enduringly—

For heart and mind will this enshrine ineffably.

Come friends, sweep away to the age of chivalry—to Old France—to life and love and intrigue.

Here is romance—magnified, glorified and entrancing.

Huge settings—massive scenes—moments of splendor and grandeur, of heartbreak and of exaltation.

Thousands of players—a cast of stars, Conway Tearle, Wallace Beery, Courtenay Foote, Josephine Crowell, Betty Francisco and others.

Never before a picture like this; and perhaps never one as great to follow.

PESKY BED-BUGS

(Pesky Devils Quietus) P. D. Q. is the new chemical that puts the everlasting to the Pesky bedbugs, roaches, fleas, ants and moths—impossible for the pesky devils to exist where P. D. Q. is used.

Recommendations of Hotels, Hospitals, Railroad Companies and other public institutions are a guarantee to the public that the safest, quickest and most economical way of ridding the pesky insects is by the use of P. D. Q., as this chemical kills the eggs as well as the live ones, and will not injure the clothing.

A 35c package makes a full quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, ants or cooties—and also contains a patent spout to get the eggs nests in the hard-to-reach places and saves juice. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in sealed bottles, double strength, liquid form.

Farmers Guests Of New York City

An event of much importance to farmers took place on July 23 in connection with a three days' marketing inspection trip of the New York State Farm Bureau Managers, sponsored by the Department of Agricultural Relations of the New York Central. As a courtesy to the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., in charge of the day's program, the city of New York, through the Department of Plant and Structures, gave the farm bureau men and other visitors from the country a three-hour sail around the harbor on the municipal ferryboat "President Roosevelt." Heads of several municipal departments detailed representatives to point out terminals, piers, markets, etc., and to explain the relation of each to the marketing and food distribution system of the greater city as the boat skirted the shore line. The trip was enjoyed by 250, including Farm Bureau managers, directors and county presidents of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association Inc., and members of the Conference Board of Farm Organizations who had their summer session in the city that day.

Prior to the boat ride, the farmers visited the city hall where Acting Mayor William T. Collins delivered an address of welcome in the mayor's reception room. The response for the "Country Cousins" was made by S. L. Strivings, master of the New York State Grange.

In the morning the visiting farmers inspected the headquarters of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., at 120 West 42nd street. They were taken in busses from the league's offices to a broadcasting station, then to the city hall, and later to the President Roosevelt's slip at the Battery by a special escort of motorcycle policemen. The city's program for honoring the farmers was under the auspices of the mayor's committee on reception to distinguished guests.

DISTINCTION IN SMALL THINGS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

All fashion interest centers on what is to be rather than what is. Late summer models invariably are affected by early fall tendencies, so it comes about that because Paris is playing up all shades of pansy purples, the shops have suddenly blossomed forth with purple straws and felts for immediate wear. Reboux unbound felt, with its slash brim knotted to supply the only trimming, has already had a big success. The cloche has passed from sight in exclusive circles, and the newest hats avoid it, many assuming sailor shapes, which is another way fashion has of paying homage to Spain.

In the not so long ago one naturally inferred that velvet was going to be worn, but in the curious ups and downs which fabrics, as well as persons, are subjected, velvet has been almost in the discard. Midsummer has brought it forth in combination with straw, and all reports from Paris, the birthplace of most smart millinery ideas, are that old-fashioned Lyons velvet will be the material de luxe for fall. One hears most, from the same source, of black, red, purples of the pansy and orchid tints, and of such shades as are broadly classified as tortoise-shell, covering a wide range of light and some darker browns. Mahogany is another shade frequently on the tongues of stylists.

It is also rumored that many smart Parisiennes are allowing their hair to grow, wearing it in a sausage roll, which does not interfere with the contour of the head.

Second Empire tendencies continue to manifest themselves, and many quaint, off-the-shoulder necklines are noted, and interesting collar treatments which continue to intrigue women who like the individual touch.

The hat sketched is trimmed with seed pearls, and the collar contrives to add a quaint touch and also a bit of color.

Ulster Classis Special Session

A special session of the Classis of Ulster was held on Monday morning in the Fair Street Reformed Church, and was attended by eight ministers and eight elders, representing 16 churches. The president, the Rev. G. W. Gulick, led the meeting in prayer. After the call for this meeting had been read, a call of the Bloomingdale and Rosendale Reformed churches upon the Rev. W. Dumont Conklin to be their pastor and teacher was read, found in order and approved. Mr. Conklin indicated his acceptance of the call. He has already begun his work in this field. A committee was appointed to arrange for his installation.

Theodore Harold Thielpape of Hurley was recommended to the Board of Education for encouragement in his further studies.

The Classical Missionary and Classical committee on vacant churches' recommendation of Seba Grunstra as lay-preacher for the Krumville and Lyonsville churches was ratified by the Classis. These churches were recommended to the Board of Domestic Missions for assistance in meeting Mr. Grunstra's salary. Mr. Grunstra is a graduate of the Nyack Institute and has taken up the work in these churches, with residence at Krumville.

The Classis voted unanimously to permit the Reformed Church of the Comforter to negotiate a loan toward the construction of their parish house, which is about to be built to meet the demands of their growing work. The Rev. A. V. S. Wallace led the Classis in the closing prayer.

The Wonder Stocking of the Day

—In Silk and Artificial Silk

BURSON Full Fashioned Hose

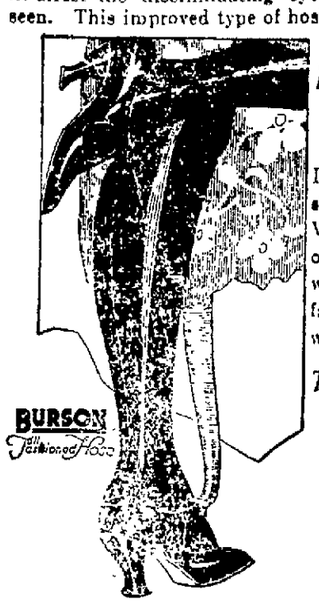
Dame Fashion has glimpsed the loveliness of a new silken creation—a Burson Full-Fashioned Stocking retailing at an unbelievable price. After a lapse of years this new wonder stocking restores to women the opportunity to buy fine fitting, long wearing, expensive looking hosiery at a very modest price. It is truly a pre-war value, bringing the dollar back to its real worth of one hundred cents. This lovely Burson stocking is luxuriously textured and beautifully hued, satisfying the most exacting wishes of smartly dressed women.

Smooth in fit—comfortable to wear

Burson Full-Fashioned Hose are deservedly popular because of their supreme comfort, smooth no-seam foot, endurance and quality.

While ideal for women who are on their feet a great deal, their trim elegance and smart fit arrest the discriminating eye wherever seen. This improved type of hosiery gives the so desired foot comfort without sacrificing fit and without wrinkled, cloudy ankles. Where else can you find such a delightful combination in hosiery—giving you the desirable features and eliminating the objectional ones?

Women who wear "Burson" appreciate the smooth sole, trim ankles, sheerness of fabric.



Knit Full Fashioned by the Burson Invented Vee Weave

In a beautiful fabric of Silk and Fibre, with its intriguing sheen, these Burson stockings are smartly shaped by the Vee Weave process, stitch by stitch, to follow every curve of the leg ankle and foot. The seam-back tapered leg, with the famous knit-to-fit foot, provides the chic full-fashioned fitting qualities, that are so essential to style, with a smooth easy tread.

These stockings are strictly "FIRSTS"—perfect in every respect—and will stand close inspection.

BURSON Full Fashioned Hose

Per Pair 89c

The TOE is fashioned to fit by the "Vee Weave" without knots and without a seam across the top.

The SOLE made of long wearing merc'zed lisle yarn, is perfectly smooth inside and out, without a welt or seam anywhere, giving absolute foot comfort to the wearer.

The HEEL is strongly reinforced for protection from the shoe but for the sake of smarter appearance is not carried unnecessarily high.

The LEG gradually tapered in the knitting to Nature's lines, conforms to the one infallible test of all Full-Fashioned stockings.

The TOP is made of strong mercerized lisle yarn, doubled to withstand the strain of garter clasps and to avoid runs.

Beautiful Silk and Artificial Silk where it shows strong Mercerized Lisle where it wears.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

DR. ANNA SHAW.

It was three score and 17 years ago today that Anna Howard Shaw, destined to win international fame as a suffrage leader, was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. She was four years old when her parents came to America, and when she was 12 they removed to what was then the wilderness of Michigan. When she was still a slip of a girl she became a school teacher at a salary of $1.00 per week and "found and by saving her money she amassed the sum of $18.00 with which she entered Albion College. By working hard and enduring many privations she completed the four year course in the Michigan College, but she was not satisfied. She had been permitted to preach from a number of pulpits and was determined to become a real minister of the gospel, so she went to Boston and graduated first from the theological and later from the medical Dept. of Boston University, paying her expenses by preaching and lecturing, being often so near starvation that she could barely walk.

THE MARSEILLAISE.

The first time that the Marseillaise was heard in the streets of Paris was when it was sung by about 600 revolutionists from Marseilles on July 29, 1792, just 132 years ago today. The hymn had been composed earlier by Rouget de Lille. Although subsequent monarchs of France sought to suppress it, it survived and became the National Anthem of France after the establishment of the Third Republic.

THE DEFEAT OF THE ARMADA.

It was 336 years ago today that the naval power of England scored its first triumph—in the defeat of the "Invincible Armada" of Spain, July 29, 1588. The Armada was assembled and equipped by Philip II, of Spain for the subjugation of England, consisting of 132 ships besides caravels. This great fleet was manned by 8,766 sailors, and 2,088 galley slaves, and carried 21,855 soldiers. There was also 150 monks, headed by Martin Alarco, Vicar of the Inquisition, also 1,355 volunteers, noblemen, gentlemen and their servants. The Armada, commanded by the Duke of Medina-Sidonia sailed from Lisbon in May, 1588, but was soon dispersed by a storm and had to be reformed.

The great fleet entered the English Channel of Cornwall on July 19. In the meantime the English fleet under Lord Charles Howard, Sir Francis Drake and Sir John Hawkins, with three armies on land had repared a warm reception. A series of action and the fire-ships that the English sent into the midst of the Armada demoralized it, many ships being taken or sunk July 29, and the Armada then beat a hasty retreat, having lost 13,000 men and 35 vessels.

Ran Auto In Tree.

The third automobile accident to take place near the Bontecou school house in the town of New Paltz this season occurred several nights ago when the driver, evidently losing control of the wheel, ran his car in a tree. The people in the car were cut quite badly and required the services of Dr. Traynor of New Paltz.

Mrs. Frederickson and two sons are spending their vacation with her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fedde.

Sanitation and War.

Edwin H. Sands, state housing commissioner of Iowa, has collected records which show that sanitation controls disease, even in warfare.

In the Mexican war, 2,731 men died from wounds, while 15,064 died of disease.

In four years of the Civil War, 110,060 Union men died of wounds; whereas deaths by disease numbered 239,874.

During the Spanish-American war and the Philippine Insurrection, 701 died of wounds, while 5,509 died from disease. This shows that disease was far more fatal than fighting.

The conditions were exactly reversed in the late world struggle. 19,706 Americans died of wounds, but disease killed only 23,451—even though a terrible Flu epidemic swept the entire world. Better sanitation caused the reduction in fatalities from disease.

While Mr. Sands gave great credit to the work of the medical corps, he pointed out that these same medical men are united in praise of the sanitary engineers and master plumbers, whose work supplied pure water and safe disposal of sewage in our cantonments.

This same health protecting work of the master plumber and sanitary engineer in our homes, our factories, and our public buildings, makes the modern community possible. This gives a rather new view of the praiseworthy community service rendered by these men.

MODENA.

Jelly Making Lesson Thursday

The women throughout the Wallkill valley are very much appreciating the instructions given by the Ulster County Home Bureau in the canning of vegetables, and fruits, and the making of jellies, marmalades, butters, conserves, and other delightful sweets. The work this year is particularly valuable in that they have an instructor, who has had a great deal of experience both in theoretical and practical food preservation, Miss Bertha Coons of Accord, who received her training last year from Professor Lucile Brewer and who has since taught in her own community and several other communities throughout the county.

Another feature which is making this year's work much more effective and easy is the fact that Mr. Vandenberg of the New Paltz Normal School has very generously allowed the women to use the Home Economic Laboratory at the Normal School. The fact that they were allowed to use this laboratory has made the teaching much easier for Miss Coons, the work much easier for the large class of women attending and is a lesson in itself that a convenient work place is necessary in a home as well as in other lines of work. The county Home Bureau and the community Home Bureaus very much appreciate this generosity on the part of the Normal School.

The next lesson will be given on Thursday, July 31st, and will be on jelly making. Those who have seen the beautiful jellies produced by the food preservation classes of last year will want to know how it is done even the experienced housekeepers. If you have not attended before and wish to attend, apply to either of the following:

Miss Mary Nilon, New Paltz; Mrs. Joe Hasbrouck, Modena; Mrs. Frank Black, Modena.

Motor Bandits Cut Off Town

Telephone and Telegraph Wires Severed by Bandits Who Terrorize Town and Blow Open Bank Safe But Get Little Loot.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—A bandit army moving in a fleet of motor cars surrounded Dover, Minnesota, near St. Charles, early today, blew the safe in the First State Bank, terrorized the town for nearly two hours and made off with only a few hundred dollars in loot when one of their number was injured by a premature blast which failed to open the inner vault.

Two women entered the bank with the safe blowers and are believed to have assisted in the bungled job of cracking the strong box.

Lieutenant George Hillstrom, of the Minneapolis police, commanded a gun squad which started in the direction of Dover this morning to head off the bandit party. At the time his car left it was known more than a score of the bandits participated in the hold up and the police squad faces the probability of being outnumbered and outfought should it encounter the army.

Three or four hundred persons living in Dover were aroused by the explosion of the charge which wrecked the outer doors of the safe and left the floor stained with the blood of one of the robbers.

H. Tubbs, depot agent at Dover, stepped out of the front door of his house with a revolver in his hand to investigate the explosion. He was met with a fusillade of shots.

Citizens who went to the telephone to call St. Charles and give alarm, discovered all lines had been cut and Tubbs, going to his telegraph key at the depot later, found that even the telegraph wires had been severed.

Telephone operators were still unable to call Dover today.

Fighting Hard to Banish Firpo

Lawyer for Banishers Critical of Official Who Refused to Permit Public to Interview Fighter's Woman Friend.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight pugilist, "will be deported from this country on a wave of moral indignation," it was predicted today by Bernard Sandler, attorney for Canon William Sheefe Chase of Brooklyn. Canon Chase is a leader in the fight to have Firpo deported.

Firpo and Blanca Lourdes, who was on the same ship with him from Buenos Aires, were detained by the authorities at Ellis Island. Firpo was allowed to enter the United States and Miss Lourdes was diverted to Havana.

"We will not hesitate to take this case before the president of the United States," Sandler said in threatening to see that the official head of Immigration Commissioner Henry H. Curran "will drop in the basket."

"Why is it?" Sandler asked, "that no one was allowed to see this woman when she was detained at Ellis Island? Why was it that the ship on which she sailed was sent from her pier an hour ahead of time?"

He charged there was a "sinister and insidious reason for admitting Firpo."

"The prize fight trust," he declared "will collect nearly $500,000 for Firpo's services here."

Firpo is schedule to fight Harry Wills, negro heavyweight in Jersey City in September.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

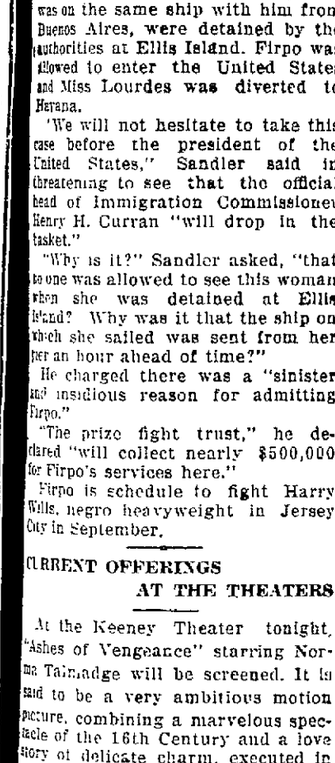
At the Auditorium tonight Wesley Barry in "George Washington, Jr." The famous stage success by George M. Cohan. Full of good wholesome fun.

BILL BOOSTER SAYS



Leopold Wants to Cross-Examine

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 29.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., on trial for his life for the killing of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, wants to take an active instead of passive part in the drama of his own court trial.

He requested his attorneys today to allow him to cross-examine two witnesses who have appeared for the state against him, both of whom, he asserted, have sworn falsely and put words into his mouth that he never uttered. His lawyers declined to grant his request.

Leopold was taking a course in law at the University of Chicago when he and Richard Loeb kidnapped and killed the Franks boy.

Tunney to Fight Young Stribling

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29.—After months of negotiation Jack Reddy, fight promoter, today announced that Billy Gibson, manager of Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, had wired his acceptance of terms for a 10-round bout with Young Stribling for St. Paul next month.

Stribling is holding out for a larger purse than has been offered but is expected to come to terms within a short time, Reddy said.

Bryan Does Not Worry Coolidge

President Declines to Discuss Nebraska Governor's Criticism on National Defense Day Program of War Department.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 29.—President Coolidge today declined at his regular Tuesday conference with the newspapermen to discuss the critical attitude of Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska toward the government's plan for National Defense Day.

The president, White House officials said, did not care to add anything to his statement of last week, in which he rapped "pacifist" organizations for opposing the war department plans.

Despite Bryan's criticisms, it was stated at the war department, the Nebraska governor had done everything the Federal government asked him to do in carrying out the skeleton mobilization in his own state.

Youth May Well Spare Thought for the Old

Courtesy is not only a matter of speech; we may observe the forms of politeness in what we say and yet in its essence, perhaps because we are not willing to listen to others.

For instance, when old people are speaking the majority of us are frankly impatient. Grandpa perhaps is about to launch an anecdote. It may be as ancient as the hills—it probably is, but that is no reason for our scarcely concealed boredom. If we were truly courteous we would listen with a good grace, as though we really were interested.

But youth, nowadays, seldom stops to consider other people's feelings; and sometimes the old folk—and middle-aged folk, too, for that matter—are hardly allowed even a share in conversation, observes London Answers.

If they do attempt to take part in the talk some one says: "Oh, please spare us that story—it's so ancient." Whereupon aunt or grannie lapses into a hurt silence, while the young people prattle merrily on. More pain than one would imagine is given by remarks of this kind, for by such means those older than ourselves are made to feel their age, to realize that they are "out of things."

Willing or unwilling, the old are thus relegated to the background, and the knowledge that they are superfluous hurts. For, dull as we may think them in some ways, they are not slow to discover when they are not wanted.

The other day, in a boarding house, an old lady of eighty-four, who was all alone, said, rather wistfully: "You see, the old people don't matter."

Can we not make the old feel that they are wanted—can we not try to make old age a time of happy and peaceful waiting for the end which comes so very soon? This would be showing true courtesy and, perhaps, it would not be so very boring after all. For those older than ourselves have a wider store of experience than our own and some of them, at least, can talk very charmingly of what they have seen and the people whom they have met.

The Son of a Soldier

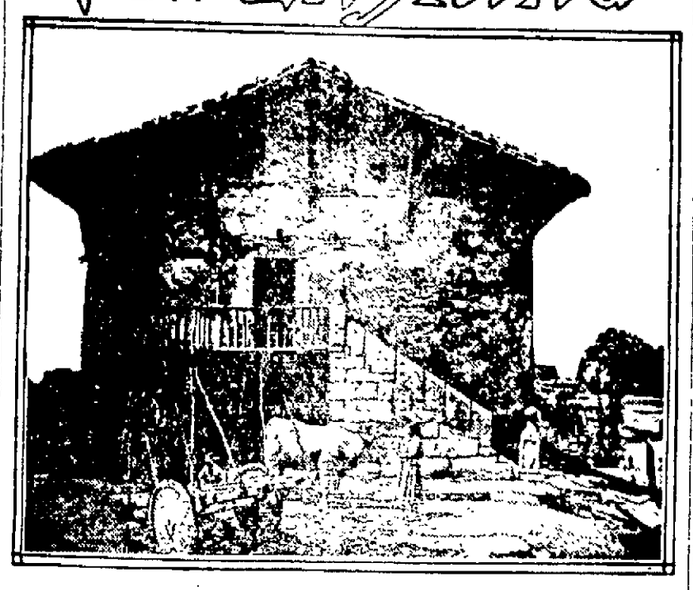
Little Dan's father is an American Legion man and Danny is loyal to America through and through. So when he went to Aunt Jane's he frowned when she boasted of her Persian cat and her Angora cat, and told how they had won prizes at different fairs.

"Well, auntie," he finally voiced his feelings on the subject, "our cat never won no prizes and he's just an alley cat, but he's not a foreign animal like yours, but an American cat."

Boar in Ice Block

An immense block of ice encasing the body of a wild boar was swept across a road near Rochetaile, France, recently in the course of an avalanche. The ice was chopped open, and the boar, found to have been excellently preserved, provided a feast for the villagers.

Spain's New England



Typical Basque Farm House.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Those who may look upon Spain as a land of the siesta where life flows in a leisurely sort of way, have overlooked the Basque provinces at the extreme north of the peninsula. This region centering around the important port of Bilbao has been aptly dubbed "Spain's New England," for there is an unmistakable Yankee-like spirit in the air.

The traveler notes the change as soon as he crosses the Basque border by rail. Even the train picks up spirit and arrives at each succeeding little station punctually—a thing unknown in the country to the south. The "Vascongados," as the Spaniards call them, or the "Euskaldunac," as they call themselves, are decidedly different. Even the Basque tongue (Euskara) is totally unintelligible to the Spaniard, and it is spoken almost exclusively by the peasants of the little provinces of Guipuzcoa, Vizcaya and Alava, though Spanish is used in the larger towns and cities. A Basque newspaper, and there are several of them, resembles Polish quite as much as it does Spanish.

The history of these "Yankees" of Spain, who proudly claim to be the oldest unmixed race in Europe, is a repetition of determined efforts to defend and retain the natural rights and liberties which they have enjoyed since time immemorial. They had certain fueros, or special privileges, to which they held through thick and thin, and way back in 1202 they stubbornly refused to become incorporated with the provinces of Leon, Navarre and Castile until the privileges had been duly recognized.

These privileges gave the Basques, among other things, a republican constitution in their three little provinces, immunity from taxation and freedom from military service, though they maintained certain forces of their own.

After Basques helped in the unsuccessful Carlist uprising in 1876, however, these fueros were taken from them. Thus the much-hated salt monopoly of the Spanish government was introduced into the three provinces along with the more-hated tobacco monopoly and with the most-hated "quinta," or military conscription.

Bilboa, Second Spanish Port.

Picture a small, round valley nestling among wondrous green hills, some of which are almost worthy of the name of mountains, with a river carefully making a letter S or two in order to enter this beautiful stronghold. That is the site of Bilboa, with its hundred thousand souls, the largest Basque city and the second seaport of Spain.

The river is the Nervion, which has been canalized from the city to the Bay of Biscay, eight miles distant, so that sea-going merchant vessels come to town, passing the Ayuntamiento, the beautiful municipal building, on their way, and dropping anchor within a stone's throw of the Teatro Arriga, one of the finest theaters in Spain.

The hills encircle the city so closely that the ribbons of railways seeking entry from north, east, south and west attain their end only by plunging into smoky tunnels.

After likening the Basque provinces to New England, one must mix his similes a bit and admit that Bilboa is the "Pittsburgh" of Spain. Along the Nervion, between the city and the sea, are some of the world's most famous iron deposits. They were known in the Middle ages—so much so, in fact, that Elizabethan writers used the term "bilbo" for rapier. It is largely during the last three decades, however, that vast exploitation has taken place; and now the river is lined with freighters loading ore for Newcastle or for Rotterdam, where it is transshipped into Rhine barges and carried to Krupps and other German iron and steel makers.

But not all of this Vizcayan wealth is exported in its natural state. Basque energy has caused the erection of smelting plants along the river, where steel rails and ship plates are produced. The rails explain why these provinces lead in the matter of Spanish railways, and the steel plates why Bilbao has become Spain's shipbuilding center.

The peasant farmers in Basque land, as is true of the peasants in other parts of Europe, give up the ground floor of their dwellings to chickens, pigs and steers; but their own quarters upstairs in these houses of many animals, are spotlessly clean.

Many Mines and Foundries.

One derives a false picture of the center of Basquedom around Bilbao, unless he takes the little eight-mile side trip from the city down to the sea. Paralleling each side of the river is an electric tramway, and paralleling each of these in turn is a steam railway.

Town after town is to be seen on the way. Along the left bank of the Nervion shipbuilding yards are succeeded by immense iron foundries and smelters, and dozens of steamers are tied up alongside these industrial plants, all combining to fill the air with the smoke of man's activities.

The pretty green hillsides far beyond the river are marred here and there by patches of reddish-brown color, where, in the distance, can be seen the puff of the little locomotives of the ore trains, and occasionally the rumble of a dynamite explosion is heard. These are the mines, and from many of them, stretching for miles through the air, to the loading berths on the river, are aerial cables, to which are fastened buckets full of red ore moving continually from mine to river, with parallel cables carrying back the empties to the far-away brown patches on the hillside.

The river winds its way between these rich hills, and finally, rounding a corner, comes suddenly to the sea. The strong sea breezes of the Biscay blow away the smudgy fog of industry, and one emerges again into sunny Spain.

At each side of the river mouth is a town—Portugalete on the left and Las Arenas on the right. A beautiful and unusual bridge, connecting the two forms a fitting monument to mark the union of the Nervion with the waters of the Atlantic.

There are few harbors more beautiful in setting than this, with one breakwater of stone stretching far out into the sea from the Portugalete side and another, of equal length, from the Las Arenas side. Within the breakwaters are vessels riding at anchor on the deep, blue water, a few steamers and many small fishing schooners, for the fresh fish of the Basque sea are marked high in the record of fish excellence.

Basque Sardine Women.

One of the unique little pictures of the Basque towns on the sea is that of the bare-footed sardine women, walking with infinite and unaffected grace through narrow streets of stone flagging, with great square wooden trays balanced on their heads. On the trays are hundreds of silvery fresh sardines laid out in neat rows. And the women cry, "Sardinas, sardinas vivas!" indicating that their wares are still alive.

Among other qualities of excellence, the Basques are the leading athletes in Spain. They supply a goodly number of toreros for the bull ring, but the really noteworthy excellence of the Basque sportsman lies in no more nor less than playing ball.

It is not baseball, however, but the great Basque ball game, juego de pelota, democratic and popular as is the national game in America. One sees the boys in the villages hard at it, and in the cities the fond Basque parent, like the American, is sometimes caused a violent shock by the smashing of a pane of glass in the dining-room, caused by the unwelcome entry of a pelota, a little smaller and a little harder than a baseball.

The game is, perhaps, a more violent form of sport than baseball, and in many respects closely resembles squash rackets.

In a description of the "New England of Spain" some mention must be made of San Sebastian, the second city in the Basque provinces, but the least Basque in characteristics. It is a modern town on the Bay of Biscay only a few miles from the French frontier, the summer residence of the royal family and the most popular of Spanish resorts. It has a fine casino and an unrivaled bathing beach. Indeed, in many ways, San Sebastian is a serious rival of Monte Carlo.

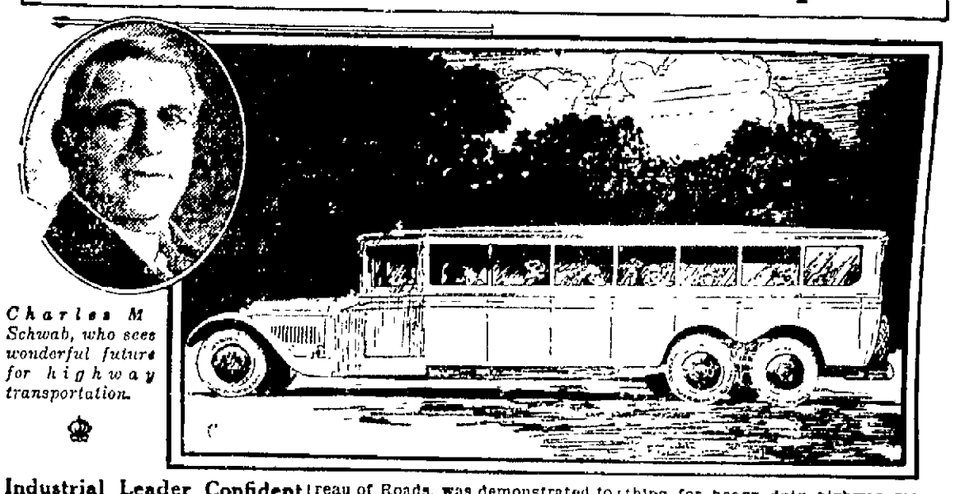
Six-Wheel Motor Coach Promises Vast Highway Transportation Development



Charles M Schwab, who sees wonderful future for highway transportation.

Industrial Leader Confident New Type of Construction Will Revolutionize Use of Highways as Complement to Steam and Electric Lines.

ANNOUNCEMENT that Charles M. Schwab has entered the automotive industry, in the field of large capacity passenger coaches and freight trucks, has attracted wide attention in automobile and transportation circles.

Development of a type of vehicle of sufficient capacity to permit of economical and profitable operation, and at the same time to reduce road impact to a minimum, has been the real problem of highway transportation, according to Mr. Schwab. With a considerable amount of passenger and freight traffic available and a vast mileage of improved highways ready for use, the problem of a thoroughly satisfactory vehicle has been for several years squarely up to automotive engineers and manufacturers. A six wheel, pneumatic tired vehicle, driving and braking on four rear wheels which are assembled as a unit, is Mr. Schwab's answer to the challenge.

Remarkable Impact Reduction

The new vehicle, in actual tests conducted by the United States Bureau of Roads, was demonstrated to have a road impact only one-fourth that of solid-tired four-wheel vehicles of like capacity in general use. The manner in which the load is distributed among the six pneumatic tired wheels explains this enormous decrease in impact, as well as the corresponding increase in comfort and efficiency of the vehicle. Tires 32x6 inches are used on all six wheels.

Steam and electric railway mileage in the United States for several years has been showing a steady decrease. Coincident with this condition, freight and passenger traffic are showing consistent increases in volume.

Solution of Problem

With intelligent use of highway transportation offering the only solution of the problem, Mr. Schwab was attracted to the motor coach and truck industry.

In the past it has been the practice of builders of motor busses generally to adapt truck design to purposes of passenger transportation. The six-wheel bus is a complete departure from all precedent, embodying a number of features absolutely new in this type of vehicle.

Experience of Railroads

"When railroads first used four-wheel trucks under their cars, two-wheel trucks became forever obsolete," says Mr. Schwab. "The new type of six wheel construction will, in my opinion, accomplish the same thing for heavy duty highway motor vehicles.

"I do not regard the motor bus and heavy duty motor truck as competitors of the rail lines, except in segregated instances. It is thoroughly practical for rail lines to use highway transportation systems as feeders. It costs nearly $90,000 per mile to build and equip rail lines today. That precludes new construction except in highly profitable territory, because the gross revenue required for rail operation today is four times what it was ten or twelve years ago. Highway transportation steps into this breach, however, provides the transportation demanded and gives flexibility which cannot be obtained in any other way.

Street Railway Situation

"Street railways are up against the same problem as the steam rail lines. Extensions for the development of new urban territory and often for interurban traffic are no longer practical, and the bus must be depended upon to do the job.

"With nearly 3,000,000 miles of highways in the United States, as compared with about 250,000 miles of steam railroads and 50,000 miles of electric railways, the vast opportunity that has awaited the right type of highway vehicle is obvious."

The new type of vehicle is being produced by the Six Wheel Company of Philadelphia. Mr. Schwab is chairman of the board of directors of the company.

SCHOOL DAYS

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

HITTING THE MARK

IF THE first arrow misses the target do not lose patience or become dismayed. Keep on shooting though you may empty your quiver and be compelled to refill it.

Nothing in this world is gained except by persistent effort, good nature and good will toward others, combined with willingness to listen to kindly counsel. However gifted we may be, we cannot go at one leap to the top.

Many of the failures in schools and universities, in business ventures and in the professions come from impatience and the inability to master one's self.

How to hope and labor is a lesson that but exceedingly small numbers of peoples of the world have yet learned, having been swept from the true course by yielding at a crucial moment in their lives to some silly impulse.

Physical passions, mental contortions, egotisms, are the imbecile offsprings of incapable minds, whose eyes are so dull and hands so unsteady that their inefficient owners never succeed in hitting the mark, except by accident.

Instead of smiling, stepping lightly along the way and scattering pleasant words as they go, these hapless souls drag their feet, scold their dearest friends and apparently do their utmost to bankrupt their fellow creatures.

It is often impossible to encourage such souls or brighten their surroundings, for unfortunately they are made of the roughest clay which neither pity nor kindness can smoothen.

Pity them when they are in more trouble than usual, or do them a favor when they are in dire need, perhaps distress, and the likelihood is that they will turn from you without a sign of gratitude on their stoical faces.

And yet these enigmatic souls wonder why they fail to win in the battle where smiling faces, pleasant manners, soft words and laughing eyes are the chief weapons of success.

Not even in love are they moonstruck, and before they hit the mark some cheerful, sunny and hopeful swain who could laugh and tell delightful fairy tales has been blessed by the bishop and gone a honeymooning!

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

IF WISHES were horses, every normal woman would immediately "wish" they were automobiles. You can't cheat a woman out of her divine right to be "discontented."

When Solomon wailed, "Feed me with apples and stay me with flagons, for I am sick of love!" he was either just recovering from a grande passion, or trying to escape a "petting party."

Many a girl tempts a man to make love to her, just in order to brighten up his conversation, when she feels herself about to yawn.

There are only two vital causes of the failure of any marriage: one is the husband; the other is the wife.

To make an ideal lover, take the daring of a soldier, the imagination of a poet, and the tenderness of a mother; but to make an ideal husband, you will have to substitute caution for daring, generosity for imagination, and then add an income and a motorcar.

Love fits a woman's heart like a glove; but it fits a man's heart like his clothes, always loosely enough for him to turn around in and look for—another love.

Marriage is the end of a girl's troubles, trials and problems; but it isn't until after the wedding that she discovers WHICH end.

When a man marries a rich woman for her money, he soon begins to regard her kisses as "income tax"—and to look around for a few "exemptions."

The Romance of Words

"GRASS WIDOW"

THIS term—which in America is bestowed either upon a divorced wife or to one who is separated from her husband but in England is used to designate a discarded mistress or an unmarried mother—is claimed by some to have been derived from "grace widow," a woman who is a widow by grace or courtesy but not by fact.

While plausible, this explanation is not the true one. The term started with the colloquial rural expression in England of a "grass marc"—meaning a horse which has been turned out to pasture. At first, even on the other side of the Atlantic, it bore no reproach, being applied to any woman who was living apart from her husband. The wives of army officers or navy captains were known as grass widows, until the term finally fell into disrepute. Before this occurred, however, it had been imported into the United States and first came into general use at the time of the California gold strike in 1849, when many wives were left at home while their husbands sought wealth in the West.

Wife in the Way

Ole Svenson, a son of the silent north, after having lived by himself and prepared his own meals for 30 years, had taken a wife. Mrs. Svenson proceeded to live with her husband for the better part of two months, after which she ran away to the city.

"Well, Ole," said a friend some time after the lady's departure, "are you sorry she went?"

"No," replied Ole.

"No? Why not?"

"Vell," was the reply, "she vas always geting in de vay ven I vas cooking."—Everybody's Magazine.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—Another outburst of bouyant activity in the railroad and industrial stocks, the former under the leadership of Pere Marquette, and the latter led by American Can, featured the stock market today. Numerous industrial and specialty stocks, including the pool stocks, which have been left to their own devices in recent sessions, joined vigorously into the upward movement.

Broadening speculative interest, which usually makes its appearance after an upward swing in prices is well under way, was seen today in the aggressive buying of industrial stocks as prices climbed fractionally higher. The increase of brokers' loans in the last two weeks over the past few weeks in evidence of the expansion of speculative or marginal buying, in contrast to the "bargain hunting" investment buying which generally follows a severe drop in prices.

Traders in Pere Marquette have estimated the exchange value of the shares in the Van Sweringen at considerably above the present market price and hence the stock was bid up in spirited fashion today. Selling at 59¼ this stock is now up about 20 points from the low of the year. After holding back for most of the session Erie Common climbed back to 35½, representing a gain of nearly 2 points for the day.

American Can and Baldwin at the head of the industrial list; Anaconda and Kennecott leading the coppers; American Water Works and West Penn Company the industrials; Baldwin the equipments, and Pan-American and Marland the oils, the whole market surged forward to uniformly higher prices in the fourth hour. American Can's performance was all the more spectacular because of its marked weakness a few months ago when the directors refused to increase the dividend and the stock dropped down to 98. At 124¼ the stock sold at the highest price since 1919.

United States Steel was never more than a point below the level of last night's enthusiastic closing and toward the close of the session it started forward on another upward movement which carried the price above 104. Independent steel stocks generally followed this lead and good records were made today by Vanadium, Replogle and other of the low priced issues.

Cotton markets were unsteady and commodities markets did not command the attention they did a few days ago. Foreign exchange markets reflected confidence of the outcome of the reparation parley.

Skeleton Leads to Murder Charge

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 29.—W. H. Bennett and his wife, of Rome, Georgia, today were served with warrants charging murder in connection with the finding of an acid eaten skeleton in the old Bennett home here almost two weeks ago.

The skeleton, officers declared, is that of Miss Augusta Hoffman, Bennett's aunt, who was living with him here at the time of her mysterious disappearance nine years ago.

A few minutes after the arrests the preliminary hearing of the Bennetts got under way in a crowded court.

A pile of bones unearthed in the cellar of Bennett's former home in a fashionable residential district here was said by officers at the beginning of the hearing to be those of the missing Miss Hoffman. Identification, they intimated, has been established with the aid of a pair of eye glasses and a set of false teeth and a few scraps of clothing which were found near the body.

Miss Hoffman dropped from sight in 1915. Bennett and his wife have stoutly maintained their innocence.

Y.), last Friday at Mrs. De Tounay's home, Calle Pampa, 3599 Delgrano. Mr. and Mrs. Conant sail this week for a visit to England and France, after which they will proceed to the United States and home." Mr. and Mrs. Conant are expected to arrive in Kingston in September.

Russell-Snyder.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Saugerties on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock when Miss Helen I. Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Snyder of West Bridge streeet, Saugerties, became the bride of F. L. Russell of Holyoke. Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. V. Wemple and the Rev. Homer L. Scheffer of the Reformed Church, Saugerties. The ceremony was performed in the beautiful garden of the bride's home, which was beautifully and artistically decorated for the occasion. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles Fisher of Bound Brook, N. J., Miss Helen Pellissier of Holyoke, Mass., and Miss Norma Field of Nassau, N. H. The maid of honor was Mrs. J. C. Overbaugh, sister of the bride. She was gowned in quaint cream color lace and carried a garden hat filled with roses. The bride was charming in ivory satin, trimmed with real lace and veil with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses, white sweet peas and swansonia. The best man was Conrad Russell, brother of the groom. The ushers were Thomas Masson, Harold Dudgeon, Tad Hazen of Holyoke, Mass., and Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties. An outdoor reception was held immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Daley catered. During the ceremony Mollott's orchestra rendered selections. Following a wedding trip the newlyweds will reside at Brooks avenue, Holyoke, Mass.

SEA FURNISHES ANOTHER MURDER MYSTERY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—The police of Southampton, L. I., today were investigating a murder mystery that came from the sea. The body of a man, devoid of any means of identification, was found here on the beach.

A deep wound on the back of the head appeared to have been made by some weapon.

The theory was advanced that the man may have been a bootlegger killed in a fight along rum row and his body tossed overboard.

Many Clashes in Fallon Case

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—Federal Judge George W. McClintic hearing the trial of Wiliam J. Fallon, lawyer, accused of bribing a juror, halted proceedings several times today to express disapproval of the line of questioning being folowed by R. J. Shanahan, Fallon's counsel, in his cross-examination of Ernest Eidlitz, a witness and former confidential employe of the defendant.

"What's that got to do with it"? Judge McClintic interposed at one point and when Shanahan replied the question had bearing on the "bias of the witness" the judge declared: "Oh, no, I can't see it."

A sharp exchange marked one interruption. Judge McClintic had objected when Shanahan asked Eidlitz about his presence in the Federal building during the trial of the Durrell-Gregory mail frauds case in which Fallon was indicted on a charge of having bribed Charles W. Rendigs, a juror.

"If we can't cross-question the witness on direct testimony we might as well not question him at all," Shanahan said.

"I'm the judge of this court," Judge McClintic retorted, "and I'm going to run it as I see fit. You or no one else is going to take charge here."

At another point in the cross-examination when Shanahan was pressing questions as to how often the witness had seen certain reporters, Judge McClintic, with some heat interrupted to say:

"This is not relevant. It is just taking up time. What difference does it make if he saw a reporter every day?"

Shanahan's questioning largely had to do with alleged conversations between Fallon and the witness in February or March last when the defendant's case was said to have been discussed. The witness replied with "no" to most of the questions.

Fertilizing Experiments

That grain fertilized by manure produced by living creatures has more nutritive value than grain fertilized by the best known combinations of artificial fertilizers is indicated by experiments recently carried out at an agricultural station in India. Grain from land artificially fertilized was found to be lacking in vitamines as compared with grain grown from soil fertilized with animal manure. The report of the work is published in a recent number of the British Medical Journal. The experiments were conducted with pigeons, fed a diet of natural millet. The birds fed with millet grown from artificially fertilized land tended to develop the characteristic paralysis resulting from vitamine deficiency and they also suffered loss of weight. It was found that the efficacy of grain in promoting nutrition and preventing beri-beri bore no relation to the yield an acre, for although land well fertilized by artificial materials gave twice the yield of well-manured soil, the grain from the latter was decidedly the best in the content of vitamines.

Puzzled Oriental

Visting in Indianapolis recently was a man who had returned from an extended visit in the Orient, the Indianapolis News reports. With him was a Mohammedan servant. Manog's calm face remained expressionless and he had scarcely a word to say until the day of their departure. Then he said: "Master, if I may dare, why do you Christians boast of your great land and send your governors to prison? The little Christian girls expose their bodies to the casual passerby through thin clothes, and your youths are unforgivably rude. Is this because of too much freedom in your country? Or too much religion?" Manog is still waiting for his answer.

Something Lacking

Verification of this one may be obtained on applying to Park Superintendent C. L. Brock.

A young lady recently arrived from a northern city, and who had never gone in much for zoology, was being shown through the Hermann park menagerie last week. She had never seen a kangaroo, and when she came to the cage containing a number of the species, she stood deeply interested for several minutes.

"But where," she finally asked her escort, "are their shoes? All my life I've been hearing about kangaroo shoes."—Houston Post.

Not a Native Product

The old lady in this colloquy from Punch is not the first to assume a knowledge that she did not have.

"Have you ever tried Swedish massage, Mrs. Brown?" the squire's daughter inquired of the gardener's wife, who suffers with chronic rheumatism.

"I have heard say it be very good for rheumatics, miss," was the reply, "but we don't grow it in these parts."—Youth's Companion.

Missouri Favors Defense Day

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

St. Louis, July 29.—The Defense Day program, September 12, as outlined by President Coolidge and the war department will be followed in Missouri, according to Governor Arthur M. Hyde who is here today.

"I am entirely in sympathy with the whole proposition," said Governor Hyde. "And I can see nothing militaristic about the plan. I intend to carry it out to the best of my ability. Some of these pacifists think shooting off a cap pistol is a military gesture. It is not different than assembling an automobile to see if it will run. I am supporting the administration."

LaFollette Vote May Mean Bryan

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Trenton, N. J., July 29.—In a statement today E. C. Stokes, chairman of the Republican state committee, attacked the campaign program of Senator Robert M. LaFollette and declared a vote for LaFollette "would be tantamount to a vote for Bryan."

"Senator LaFollette is supported by Debs, Hillquit, the Socialists and the radical syndicates of the country" the statement said.

"It is not likely that LaFollette will be elected", the statement continued.

"The best LaFollette probably could do will be to throw the election in the House of Representatives. In this event, under present conditions, Bryan, the Democratic candidate for vice-president, according to the interpretation of some constitutional authorities, may become president.

ARREST AGED SEXTON ON SERIOUS CHARGE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 29.—On the strength of stories told by three little girls ranging in age from seven to eleven the police today arrested William M. Collins, 68 year old sexton of the Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church, one of the oldest in the capital and held him for investigation.

The specific charges to be placed against Collins will depend, according to police, on an examination of him. The children said they had accepted pennies and candy from the aged sexton over a period of several months.

Collins is married and has two children.

The little girls in the case are all members of the Sunday school at the Congress Street Church and only recently graduated from the primary department.

MISS BALLING WON HARD MATCH AT SEABRIGHT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Seabright, N. J., July 29.—Miss Margaret Blake, young star of the Longwood Club, Boston, lost a hard fought three set match to Miss Florence Balling here today in the semifinal round of the women's singles at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club.

Miss Blake held the lead during most of the final set, but her unsteadiness cost her the victory. The scores were 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Blake's play generally was superior to her rival's, except for a tendency to land her drives just over the back line. She led at 4-3 then lost her next service after a long deuce game.

ACCUSE 5 OF OPERATING LIQUOR RING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Jacksonville, Florida, July 29.—Five of the group of persons indicted recently in Tampa on charges of being connected with a powerful liquor ring that has been operating between the East and West coast of Florida and Washington, were arrested today.

Other arrests are expected. Those arrested are: Fred Weaver, special agent of the Clyde Steamship line; C. F. Johnson, G. W. Keys, railroad men of Jacksonville; Martin Williams, negro Pullman porter, and Pickens Gordon, porter at the Union station here.

Couple Thought Marriage License Was Certificate

Uniontown, Pa.—Under the impression that the possession of a marriage license made them man and wife, Gennaro Damiano and Mariel Pallone, two well-known Italians, have been living together since October 24, 1922, when the license was granted here. They were not aware of their error until recently when with their baby they made application for a passport to Italy.

When asked to produce their marriage certificate Gennaro brought forth the marriage license from his pocket and was amazed when informed that he and Mariel were not man and wife. They went at once before Alderman Robert B. Collins and were married.

Epidemic of Marriage Breaks Out in Family

Fitchburg, Mass.—Ira C. Greene, a local ice dealer, has just announced his engagement to Miss Lucy Becker of Dorchester. Coincident with his announcement came announcements from his daughter, Miss Beatrice Greene, who is to become the wife of Howard Elliott of Winchendon, and from his son, Leon C. Greene, who is to marry Miss Eloise M. Clark, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry D. Clark of this city.

Klan Raider Must Face Trial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 29.—United States Judge Walter C. Lindley today remanded 21 of the famous 23 Williamson county cases growing out of the February 8th riots, back to the Williamson county courts for trial.

The ruling was a defeat for Glenn Young, paid Ku Klux Klan raider, who was defendant in 19 of the cases and who will now go to trial at Herrin or Marion.

INJURIES FATAL TO FAMOUS ENGINEER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 29.—John E. Dunlap of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, nationally known engineer and secretary of the American Society of Engineers, with headquarters in New York and Chicago, died of injuries received in a train wreck June 30 on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at Buda, Illinois.

Big Forest Fires in Shawangunks

Sweeping Mountains in Vicinity of Ellenville—Unless Checked May Cause Immense Damage—Fire Wardens Fighting Hard.

Forest fires raging in the vicinity of Ellenville since Wednesday, have swept hundreds of ares of timber land, and for a time threatened to destroy the watershed above the North Gully reservoir, and unless checked soon, may cause a repetition of the disastrous fires of last summer, which spread over approximately 12,000 acres and defaced the mountainside for a distance of nearly twenty miles along the Ellenville-Kingston state highway.

Reports from the fire rangers in the vicinity of Ellenville today indicated that the fire which broke out on Sunday in the vicinity of the North Gully on the Shawangunk Mountains, above the Ellenville reservoir, and which threatened to spread to the base of the mountain, near the upper residential section of Ellenville, is practically out.

At Lake Awosting, six miles above Minnewaska, the flames are creeping dangerously near the Awosting Camp for boys, at the present time being only one mile away. The fire threatens to wipe out the colony of tents and bungalows unless checked soon. Fire wardens in charge of fighting the fire believe that they will get it under control before this happens. Scores of boys between the ages of 12 and 14 are in attendance at this camp and they will be taken to Lake Minnewaska if the fire approaches much nearer.

A force of 70 men are now fighting the fires under the direction of District Ranger F. C. Todd, Ranger Andrews from Big Indian, Ranger Garrison from Alligerville, and Ranger Wood from Ellenville. The new fire apparatus which was recently purchased for fighting the fires is being used with very desirable results.

A part of the fire which is raging in the vicinity of the village can be seen from this city, particularly at night.

Odds and Ends

Miss Olive Hull of 411 Washington avenue is visiting friends in Haverstraw.

MARINE PATROL SINKS SUPPOSED RUM RUNNERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—One alleged rum yacht was captured today and another believed sunk by the marine patrol boat Shark in a running battle during which several hundred shots were fired off Montauk Point, L. I., The captured yacht, Williams 18, was riddled with machine gun bullets and leaking so badly it was beached on Ellis Island.

Three men were under arrest and 700 cases of wine, mostly champagne was seized. The liquor was valued at $40,000.

Flyers Will Meet Cold Weather

American 'Round the World Flyers Get Weather Forecast Showing Cold Weather Prevailing Over the North Atlantic.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Brough, England, July 29.—With the guardian American cruisers and destroyers in position, all was in readiness today for the trans-Atlantic hop off of the United States army 'round-the-wold flyers tomorrow morning.

It was planned by Lieut. Lowell M. Smith, the flight commander, to float the three planes at five o'clock, taking off two hours later. The American globe circlers hope to reach Kirkwall, in the Orkney Islands, at noon, where they will rest over night and replenish their supplies. The jump to the American continent will be commenced Thursday morning, weather permitting.

Vessels in the North Atlantic report cold weather, but a comparative calm. The forecast is for good weather tomorrow.

Word was received from Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, commander of the light cruiser divisions, that everything was in readiness for the departure of the airmen tomorrow. Rear Admiral Magruder's flagship, the Richmond, was due at Houton Bay this evening. The cruiser Raleigh is already off Houton Bay, having preceded the Richmond to report weather conditions.

This was a busy day among the American aviators. They gave their planes a final overhauling and tested every part thoroughly.

The Americans were eager for the coming adventure.

"We want to get home," said Lieut. Smith. "We are sure of success unless the unforseen happens."

The Americans have received orders to await weather reports from the patrol ships before leaving Kirkwall for Iceland. Air routes will be followed that have never been traversed before and it was feared that icebergs and icepacks might present new hazards. The airmen will land at Reykjavik and Hofnharnfjord.

American Wife Demands Jewels

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, July 29.—Countess Piccio, American wife of General Pierre Roger Piccio, head of the Italian air service, claimed that her husband benefited to the extent of $21,700 in four years through her generosity, when the couple's mutual suit for separation began here today.

Attorney Delfrage, representing Countess Piccio, charged that General Piccio knocked down his wife, in a Paris hotel, and then left for Rome taking with him $50,000 worth of jewelry, including a $25,000 pearl necklace which the countess had bought for herself. The lawyer demanded the return of this jewelry to the wife.

In his counter action, General Piccio charged his wife with extravagance.

Plea for Better Understanding

Secretary Hughes Tells French Bar Americans are Animated by Desire to Deepen Realization of Fellowship in Common Cause.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, July 29.—Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, replying today to the address of wicome at the French bar ceremonies, at the Palace of Justice, made a plea for better understanding between the nations.

"We come," said Secretary Hughes, "animated by a desire that, through these friendly interchanges, we may deepen the realization of our fellowship in a common cause. We worship with you in an invisible temple of justice whose votaries know no distinction of race, country or condition."

Hughes was the guest of Jules Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, at a private luncheon. Later he attended the reception at the Palace of Jusciee.

Bastone Fined $5.

J. Frank Bastone was arrested Monday by Officer Shoemaker for driving to the left of a police standard. He paid a $5 fine.

Dick Turpin's Home

It is reported that the reputed home of Dick Turpin, the celebrated highwayman, Percival or Parsifar hall, a fine old mansion in the valley of the Wharfe between Barden and Appletreewick, Yorkshire, is to be sold. It is a hall with an interesting history. Here it was that William Nevison, alias Swift Nick, the original of the traditional Dick Turpin, was wont to spend his time when not engaged in daring exploits on the road. The place is famous, too, as the one-time home of one of Yorkshire's quaintest characters, Parson Heye, while tradition says that one of the most terrible Barguests—those ghostly dogs which Yorkshire country people believe walk at night—is to be found near the hall.

Forest of Vallombrosa

The forest of Vallombrosa was founded in the Twelfth century and given its name, which literally translated means "Shadowed Valley," by St. Giovannio Gaulberto. It was founded as a monastery and retreat for one of the Benedictine order of monks, and from its early inception the monks took great pride in caring for, cultivating and replanting the forests, the Detroit News notes.

Use of charcoal in Italy has always been very heavy because of its almost universal use for cooking and heating. At Vallombrosa a large quantity has always been made, even in the time of the monks during the Middle ages.

Got His Answer

An Irish politician was delivering a passionate speech to a mixed crowd. He had suffered badly at the hands of one particular heckler, but at last his chance came.

"You think you're smart, don't you?" sneered the heckler. "Well, just tell us how many toes a pig has got."

"Take your boots off and count!" was the lightning reply.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

$26 Million Dollar Grain Co-operative Organized

Incorporation of a $26,000,000 co-operative marketing company, to be known as the Grain Marketing company, under the Illinois Co-operative Marketing act of 1923, marks this week's progress in the development of the plans for the grain producers taking over the marketing machinery of their product.

A temporary board of directors was announced by J. W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation. The board includes O. E. Bradfute, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Louis J. Tabor of Ohio, master of the National grange, and the presidents of the American Wheat Growers, Inc.; the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc.; the Illinois Farmers' Elevator association, and the Iowa Farmers' Elevator association.

The first job of the newly organized co-operative grain marketing company will be to deal with the proposal of taking over the facilities of the Armour Marketing company, Rosenbaum Grain corporation, Rosenbaum Brothers, J. C. Shaffer & Co., all the headquarters in Chicago, and the Davis-Noland-Morrill Grain company of Kansas City.

Organization and operation of the grain marketing company will constitute a revolution in method of handling grain. It will place the mid-Western grain growers in the same marketing position as the national co-operative marketing machinery has placed cotton and tobacco growers in the South, the livestock producer and the fruit grower.

County Agents to Study Market Conditions of New York

According to plans for a trip scheduled for July 21, 22 and 23, New York state county agents will have an opportunity to become acquainted with New York city marketing conditions. The trip is under the auspices of the department of agricultural relations of the New York Central railroad.

One day of the trip the county agents will be the guests of the Dairymen's League Co-operative association. They will be given a trip around the island of Manhattan to study the terminal markets on this day. Other inspections will consist of a trip through the butter and egg market, a visit to the kitchens of the Commodore hotel and a visit to an ocean liner.

On the last day of the trip from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. will be spent in the fruit and vegetable markets under the guidance of officials of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers.

Eastern Farmers Build a Great Business

The growth of co-operative purchasing in the East has been almost as rapid as the growth of co-operative marketing, the July issue of the G. L. F. Shareholder, the official organ of the Co-operative Grange League Federation Exchange indicates. Under the heading "This is the Business Farmers Built" the Shareholder shows by means of a graph how the volume of co-operative purchasing through the G. L. F. has grown from $3,671,341.77 in 1921 to $3,191,769.72 in the first four months of 1924.

The Co-operative G. L. F. Exchange, which has its headquarters at Ithaca, N. Y. is regarded as one of the biggest and most successful buying organizations for farmers in this country. The Exchange recently declared its first dividend to its farmer owners.

Many Farm Field Days to Be Held In August.

Several counties of the state will hold farm field days during August either under the auspices of the farm bureau or as a joint affair of the Dairymen's League, Grange and Farm Bureau. Schuyler, Tioga and Warren county have scheduled field days for Aug. 2; Wayne county farmers will meet at Sodus on Aug. 7; Orleans county farmers will spend Aug. 6 at Lakeside Park; on Aug. 16 the Chautauqua county picnic will take place at Stockton; on Aug. 23 the Schenectady county field day will be held at South Schenectady, and Cayuga county farmers will meet at Port Byron on Aug. 27.

Producers Handle Over Four Million In Livestock

A summary of the business for the six months ending June 30, 1924, shows a steady increase in the number of cars of livestock handled by the Producers' Co-operative Commission company at East Buffalo. During this period 304,448 head of cattle were handled by the producers' organization, reaching a value of $4,991,546.82.

Increased savings for patron members have been made with the increased volume of business handled, officers of the organization report.

Farm Conference Board Meets In New York

The New York State Agricultural conference board is scheduled to meet in New York city on July 23 at the call of S. L. Strivings, chairman of the board and master of the New York State Grange.

Republic Founded by Monk

The republic of San Marino, the second smallest independent state in Europe, is said to have been founded by Marinus, a Dalmatian monk, some time in the Fourth century. San Marino has never lost its independence.

Deeds of Young Men Blazoned in History

Alexander the Great kicked over the parental traces and conquered the world at twenty-three. Over in Carthage, when they needed a commander in chief for all the armies, they picked on a youngster by the name of Hannibal—and he was twenty-six. Columbus had plans for his voyage all laid when he was twenty-eight—and failed to get started only because he couldn't convince his elders. John Smith, the first of the line, staked out his colonial empire in Virginia when he should have been serving an apprenticeship somewhere. He was twenty-seven. A visionary young man Martin Luther by name, was just past thirty when he started the Protestant Reformation. Luther was joined by John Calvin, who was twenty-one. Calvin wrote one of his greatest books at twenty-three. Joan of Arc, when she was seventeen, emerged from obscurity in France, made her way to the leadership of the nation, and at nineteen was burned at the stake.

Patrick Henry cried "Liberty or death" when he was twenty-seven. Hamilton was thirty-two when he was made the secretary of the treasury and laid the plans for America's national banking system. A youngster of twenty-six discovered the law of gravitation. The first American modernist, Roger Williams, was a banished heretic at twenty-nine. And that's only the beginning of the list.—Stanley High, in Collier's.

Difference as to "Cat and Dog" Law

Animal pets may on occasion scratch, bite, and commit other injuries, and the owner's liability for damage will vary according to the nature of the animal.

It is much more risky to keep a monkey or an elephant than a dog, while cats, which in natural history primers are described as "of the tiger kind," are more favored by the law than almost any domestic pet.

Generally speaking, the first question asked by the law is whether the animal is fierce by nature. If so, the owner is liable for damage whether he knew of its vicious propensities or not, and it is immaterial whether he was careful or negligent.

A tame menagerie elephant and a pet monkey have been held to be animals fierce and vicious.

Although their ancestors were undubitably fierce, cats and dogs, as a result of many generations of domesticity, are now regarded as friendly to mankind. An injured plaintiff must show that the owner knew of the animal's vicious propensity toward mankind, and that with such knowledge he was negligent in the custody of it.

Geysers Aid to Farmers

Geysers are proving useful adjuncts to farming in Iceland. A well-known dye works in that country linked up its factory with water pipes direct from the hot springs and, after using the hot water in the color processes and for heating the factory and the workmen's homes, conducted it through underground pipes laid in fields, which, as a result, yielded three times as much produce as neighboring fields not so equipped, says the Kansas City Star.

Although, from time immemorial, the Icelanders have been familiar with geysers, only recently have their industrial uses been seriously considered.

A project now is on foot to supply Revkjavik with hot water for heating, bathing and washing purposes from one of the neighboring hot springs.

Result of Belief

It matters all in the world what a man does really believe and so hold as to bring it vitally home to his soul. What he believes molds him in spirit and in life.—Harvey D. Kitchel.

Colonials Again Beat Glens Falls

Leo Dugan Gave Sensational Exhibition of Fielding That Kept Schirlchmen in the Lead—Morgan Outpitches Former Colgate Star.

The Colonials pounded out an 8-3 win over Larry Doyle's Glens Falls outfit Monday evening, at the Fair Grounds for their third win of the season over the up-state players. Kinney, former ace of the Colgate hurling staff, was on the mound for Glens Falls and was found for thirteen hits.

The Colonials presented a rather patched-up line-up for the game Monday evening due to the fact that both Flynn and Deegan are out of the game because of injuries. McCue was shifted over to second base, while Captain Robins was taken from behind the bat and assigned to the hot corner, and "Hank" Smedes sent behind the bat. Dewey covered short.

Mike Morgan did the hurling for the Local club and allowed the visitors four safe blows three of which were garnered by Akins, who two years ago appeared in this city with the Saratoga High School baseball team. Morgan was rather wild at times which accounted for the three runs that the up-state team pushed across the plate, one coming in the first and two more in the ninth.

Dugan's Sensational Work.

Leo Dugan gave one of the most sensational exhibitions of playing in the outfield that the local fans have been treated to in quite some time. In the fifth inning Kinney hit a hard, low drive between left and center that looked good for a home run. Dugan started sprinting after the ball as soon as it was hit but there wasn't a fan in the stands who believed that he would be able to pull it in. Dugan didn't look at the matter in the same light however and just as the ball was falling to the ground, fairly close to the back fence, stuck out his gloved hand and pulled it in.

The Colonial star didn't stop at that but in the sixth inning made another great catch of a hit by Alexander, and then in the ninth inning travelled far into right field and pulled in a hard hit by Akins that was way over Raskin's head.

Another Colonial player that deserves a great deal of credit for the game that he played on Monday is Nelse Dewey. Dewey took Flynn's place at short and handled everything that came his way in an admirable fashion as well as participating in two double plays. Besides this the Poughkeepsian came through with three hits out of four times at bat.

Schwab Starts The Scoring.

Kinney held the Colonials scoreless until the fifth inning when Dugan got on first by coming through with a single, and Raskin got on when Gilbo made a poor peg to Alexander at first. Bill Schwab then came through with the longest hit of the afternoon when he drove the ball far over Susko's head for a triple, scoring Dugan and Raskin. Dewey drove Schwab home with his third hit of the day, and Coyle sent the shortstop to second with another single. Dewey and Coyle then tried a double steal and when Kennedy's throw to get Dewey went wild, Dewey scored but Coyle was put out trying to make third on the same play.

Four More In Eighth.

In the eighth inning the Colonials loaded the sacks when Coyle, Smedes and Dugan, all singled. Kinney forced in a run when he walked Robins and then McCue and Raskin both came through with singles, scoring Smedes, Dugan and Robins.

Picking Opponent For Gene Tunney

A Return Bout With Carpentier Looks Good to Promoters—Firpo-Wills and Walker-Leonard Bouts Interfere.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 29.—Gene Tunney, conqueror of Georges Carpentier, today appears to be on the road to fame and large gate receipts. The former A. E. F. slugger has become a strong box office attraction and his services are being sought by leading promoters who see a chance to reap a golden harvest on the strength of Gene's popularity, now at its peak as a result of his knockout of the dashing Frenchman.

Tunney is in the strategic position of a man living with his wife's parents—he has his choice of a fight between three leading opponents. The three are Tom Gibbons, Mike McTigue and Carpentier himself.

A return match with Carpentier looks to be the best bet of the three at present. Discussion still waxes strong over Carpentier's claim of foul in last Thursday's bout.

The consensus is that a second Carpentier-Tunney fight must be arranged quickly or not at all. Firpo and Wills are scheduled to meet on September 11th, and Mickey Walker and Benny Leonard on August 21st unless the New York Boxing Commission gets desperate and locks Benny in a dark closet.

Should a Carpentier-Tunney fight be scheduled for a date conflicting with these two engagements, the promoters would be forced to resort to sky writing to get any advertising from the publicity dispensers.

Promoter Jimmy Johnston today was busy figuring the feasibility of re-matching the pair for some date between the Wills-Firpo and Walker-Leonard brawls.

Ulster County Tennis Tourney

The annual Ulster county state championship tennis tournament was held at Lake Mohonk the week of July 14 to July 21. A brief summary of the main events follows:

Mixed Doubles—Mrs. F. V. Roeser, of Brooklyn, and Leonard Knox, of Glen Ridge, N. J., won from Mrs. S. H. Waring and Fred W. Letson, both of New York city, in the finals, 7-5 and 10-8.

Men's Doubles—Paul Martin, of The University Tennis Club, New York city, and Leonard Knox, of The Montclair Athletic Club, Montclair, N. J., outplayed their opponents, H. H. Bassford, of The New York and Mt. Pleasant Tennis Clubs, and Walter J. Toussaint, of Syracuse, N. Y., winning in the finals the first three sets: 6-4, 6-3 and 6-1.

Ladies' Singles—Mrs. F. V. Roeser, of Brooklyn, won a decisive victory over Mrs. W. H. Pritchard, scoring, in the finals, 6-2 and 6-1 for the first two and concluding sets.

Men's Singles—Paul Martin, of New York city and The University Club, and Henry H. Bassford, of The New York and Mt. Pleasant Tennis Clubs, were the contenders, in the finals, for the large Jefferis Cup.

The contestants were so evenly matched that the final outcome might easily have been influenced, either way, by an exceptional play without one or the other feeling badly about it. As it was, the result was in doubt until the end of the fifth set—Mr. Martin winning the deciding set and cup. The score will clearly indicate the struggle which ensued: 3-6, 6-3, 9-7, 3-6, 7-5.

RESULTS OF LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

Tennis Stars at Seabright Event

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Seabright, N. J., July 29.—The third round in the men's singles was to be played this afternoon at Seabright, where the country's leading net stars are competing in the invitation tournament.

William Johnston, the California star, played his first turf tennis of the year yesterday and appeared in splendid form. His first match gave him a victory over H. B. Fisher, the Williams College star. "Little Bill" went through the first with loss of only one game but eased slightly in the second, breaking through for a win after games were tied at 4 all. The California's second match was against Craig Biddle, who has starred in the Newport tournaments. After losing the first 6-2, Biddle deuced the second before falling before Johnston's forehand drives.

All the other California stars came through successfully.

Howard Kinsey won from Stanley Pearson, Philadelphia, placed with the second ten in national ranking. After winning the first stanza 6-3, Kinsey weakened slightly, allowing Pearson to get a lead of 5-2 before stopping him. Kinsey finally won 9-7.

Harvey Snodgrass, Los Angeles, went through two of the local players with little opposition. He first eliminated H. Talcott, with the loss of only two games and then downed Hernon Prentice, club champion, 6-2, 6-3. Snodgrass has shown a much improved game, since coming east.

Walter Wesbrook, former Michigan state champion, met stiff opposition in Bill Clothier, former national singles champion, requiring three long sets before a decision was reached. The play was almost entirely from back court, the youthful southpaw winning on condition over his veteran opponent.

Clarence (Peck) Griffin, San Francisco, beat Leonard Beckman, former Princeton star, 6-2, 6-3, keeping the latter in back court and playing with well timed drives along the side lines.

Robert Kinsey was successful in two matches, first winning from Ted Edwards, Philadelphia, in a closely played match, 7-5, 6-4. Edwards missed several opportunities to capture a set by 'netting" several "sitters." In the second, Kinsey won from Gerald Emerson, South Orange, in three sets. Emerson played splendid tennis, doing most of his effective work around the net.

The 16 players remaining were to play one round of singles this afternoon while two rounds of doubles will be disposed of before completion of the play.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Yankees shot a full game into the lead by capturing a doubleheader from the White Sox 8 to 3 and 12 to 10. The Hugmen hit four homers, Babe Ruth getting his 31st.

The Athletics beat Detroit again in a 11 inning game 7 to 4, Lamar's homer with two on, turning the trick.

Washington lost a chance to climb into second place by losing to Cleveland, Coveleskie beating Mogridge in a 2 to 1 pitching duel.

Allan Sothoron, who has lost eleven games, had a good day, and blanked the Giants 6 to 0.

The Cubs lost a 12 to 11 slugfest to the Phillies and failed to gain.

The Pirates, now moving at a fast pace, again beat the Braves, 5 to 2. It was Yde's seventh straight victory.

Cincinnati took a 3 to 2 battle from Brooklyn, the Reds getting all their runs in the first inning.

The Red Sox scored five times in the tenth and beat St. Louis, 10 to 5. Manager Sisler protested the game because of a dispute over the batting order.

Crop Losses Run Into Millions

Light Rainfall in Connecticut Causes Huge Losses in Tobacco, Peach, Corn and Hay Crops.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Haven, Conn., July 29.—Crop losses running into millions of dollars face Connecticut farmers this year as a result of the dryest summer in over 50 years. Experts say lack of rain in the critical period of growing crops has reduced some crops, such as tobacco, by 75 per cent, while the peach crop, second largest in the state, has been cut nearly 50 per cent. Corn is about 50 per cent below the average in yield while the hay crop is also short, though nearer normal.

The rainfall has been lighter this month than in any other July in 5 years and a water famine impends. This shortage, it is estimated, cuts the tobacco crop so that its value will be but about $5,000,000 instead of the $12,000,000 in unusually good years.

Getting Around Law

Beggary here is forbidden by law but it doesn't prevent it. Your London mendicant provides himself with a half dozen moth-eaten shoelaces and three boxes of sulphur matches and becomes a salesman. The police respect him as a salesman although people don't buy. They give alms and pass on.
